Camelot Receives Standing Ovation

The legendary world of "Camelot" was presented by the Maine East Music Department to full houses on May 4, 5, 6, 1968. To the two casts and the crew, who were assisted by the Music Boosters, in transforming the stage into 17th century England, the full houses and standing ovations were the rewards for work well done. All those who participated agreed that a lot of hard work and fun went into successfully presenting a Broadway Musical.

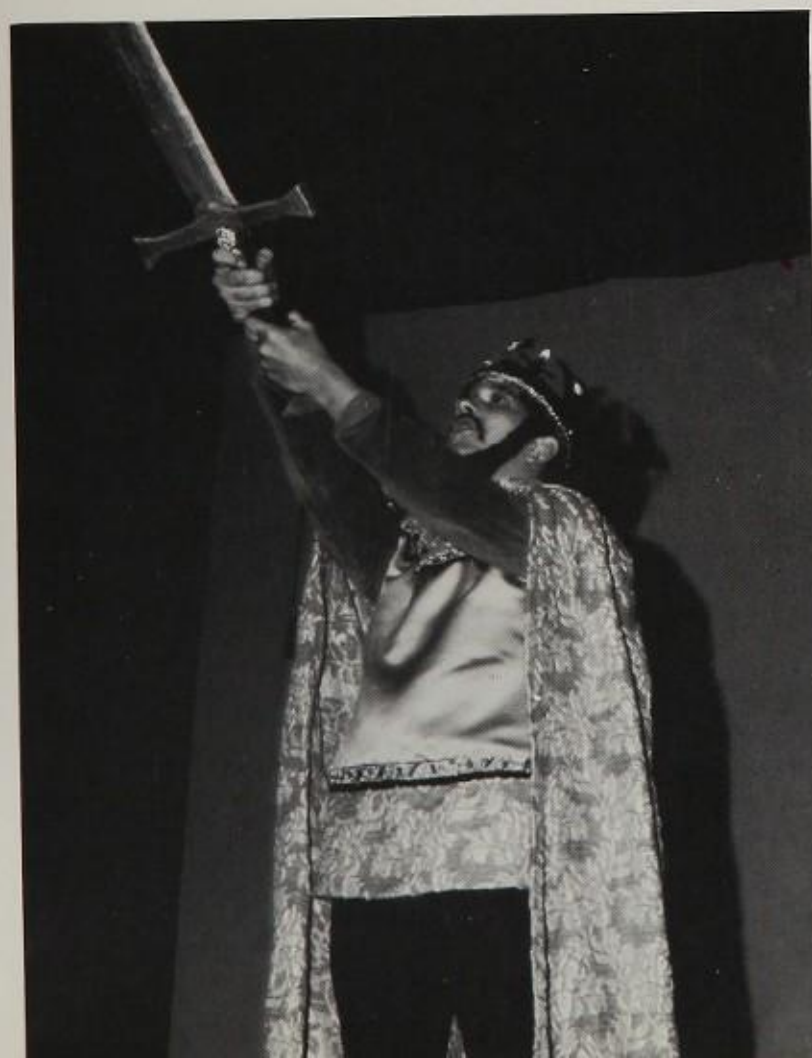

Mordred, Chuck Benjamin, and his army enter Guenevere's chamber and arrest her and Lancelot for treason. The arrest initiated the end of Camelot.

Guenevere, Jane Kamman, asks Pellinore, who he is and where he is from after he walks into the court's a-maying.

Guenevere, Jane Kamman, and Pellinore, Mike Krueger advise King Arthur on several of the more important court activities.

Bob Turek Wins S. C. Presidency

While the country was concentrating on the campaign speeches of Nixon, Humphrey, and Wallace, and thinking about America's future, the students of Maine East were thinking about and listening to the candidates for the presidential and secretarial posts in Student Council. At the Student Council Election Assembly the candidates, Bob Turek, Skip Harsy, Louise Silavin, and Roseanne Stone presented their platforms, encouraging the student body to support them as candidates. When all the votes were counted, Bob Turek assumed the presidency and Louise Silavin the post of secretary.

Keeping name bands at the Blue Demon after-dance and establishing a Tri Maine Council, are main issues in Skip Harsy's bid for Maine's Student Council Presidency.

Homecoming Says Happy 150th, Illinois

From the first float in the parade to the last number at the dance, this year's Homecoming was quite an event for Maine students. At 9:30 A.M., under sunny skies, spectators lined Milwaukee Avenue to view the parade. Illinois's Sesquicentennial provided the theme for the floats. For the second consecutive year, the Class of '70 took first place in float-building competition, followed by the senior class in second place, and the freshmen in third. After the parade it was on to the football stadium, where the varsity gridgers played a fine game but succumbed to Lyons, 27-14. During halftime the Homecoming Queen and her court were announced. Sue Trowbridge, Jackie Muench, Nancy Tait and Linda Chambers composed the Court while Carla Kumbera was crowned Queen. That night she presided over the Homecoming Dance, "Inaugural Ball." Students danced to the music of Jay Evans Orchestra, a fine ending to the Homecoming festivities.

Unexpected passengers for Tobiki greet Captain Fisby. Sakine tells of their importance to the program.

R. Bell Rescues Play, "Teahouse"

On stage the scene was a peaceful Tobiki village, while down in the dressing rooms the cast showed signs of frustration. Word had come that an ill Captain Fisby, Mike Kreuger, had surrendered his chopsticks to Ron Bell and had begun a "tour of duty" at Lutheran General. It was then that the cast pulled out their secret weapon, enthusiasm. They fed it full of hopes of success until it had reached great proportions and then turned it loose on an unsuspecting audience. All the talents of the director, Mr. David Jeffers, and the technical advisor, Mr. Kleinfeld, showed. They had taken a group of "raw recruits" and shaped them into an acting machine that took Maine in a surprise attack. The objective: "take that audience." And take it they did! The audience waved a white flag as they laughed themselves into defeat. The "Tea House of the August Moon" was safe. It was truly a great victory.

Lotus Blossom and other geishas open Capt. Fisby's birthday ceremonies at the Teahouse which should have been a schoolhouse. When the Capt. came to rehabilitate the village, he was to build a school and a factory. Opposition to his program came from the village's newest addition, Lotus Blossom; she needed a teahouse to carry out her work, while all he wanted to do was prove himself to his superiors. The villagers, agreeing with Lotus Blossom, succeeded in building their teahouse and Fisby got his "useful" factory (a whisky factory).

Clubs Tell History Of Maine Changes

Maine's club activities partake of history that is past, current, and yet to come. Some promote the traditions of Maine's past. Others, like the Human Relations Club, spring from a need to understand today's world problems. They all do their share to prepare their members for a place in the future, by fostering leadership, building character, and strengthening fellowship and tolerance.

School tradition is upheld and expanded by the Boys' Club and the Girls' Club. Fulfilling their purpose of service to the school, the Boys' Club sponsors the Christmas Formal and the Christmas Mail Box which is becoming a traditional practice, while Girls' Club sponsors the Girls' Choice Dance which is one of the first dances to have become a regular function. Both Boys' Club and Girls' Club include all students in their membership. However, there are, unfortunately, few active members. To become an active member dues and participation in club sponsored events are required.

Able promoters of today's school spirit, the Pep Club, which sponsors homecoming activities and rallies and "M" Club, with their zeal for student participation in athletics, keep the flame bright. Pep Club Kick Off Dance and their float in the homecoming parade add to the festivities at the beginning of the year. The "M" Club received its charter in 1937. Membership is limited to students who hold a letter in a sport and have been through the initiation. It offers the cheerleaders, Pom-Pon squad and members of "M" Club to participate in a Donkey Basketball game along with members of the faculty.

For tomorrow's world the Key Club seeks to build better interpersonal relationship among its members and to project the values of good citizenship through service to the school, community, and country. The Human Relations Club's concern is to further understanding between ethnic groups, another important contribution to the future of the community and the world. The club was founded as an after-math of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King and hopes to achieve its goal by tutoring at different schools.

FTA Sponsors Region Workshop

Through the years several clubs were established to promote interest in various careers. DECA Club and Office Occupations Club, once again working in conjunction with FBLA, FTA, and Medical Careers Club, were founded to stimulate an interest in different careers. These clubs met each week to provide their members with an opportunity to learn more about their chosen careers. To achieve these goals the clubs featured guest speakers to their meetings and occasionally took field trips. To finance their activities the various organizations sponsored fund-raising activities such as candle and cookies sales and dances.

Discussions Held At Club Meetings

Though time passes many of the clubs at Maine remain an important part of a student's life. As others disappear into the background and remain only as fond memories in the minds of former students new interests come to light and become an integral part of the students' lives. Radio Club, Graphic Arts Club, and Food Occupations Club were the clubs, old and new, which gave students with a common interest an opportunity to meet.

At the meetings of the Radio Club members learned to maintain and operate ham radio equipment. The acquisition of a ham radio was one of the high points of the club's history after its founding in 1936.

The history of Graphic Arts Club is rather short. Founded last year, the club met weekly to discuss and learn more about their hobby. This hobby includes the areas of architectural design and construction.

Food Occupations Club met weekly to discuss a common interest, an occupation in the area of foods. The club was a part of the food occupations work program and all who participated in the program were required to join the club.

Home Economics Club also met weekly. For several years they have used their meetings not only to discuss the interest they share, but also to plan the International Dinner and the annual Fashion Show.

While Home Economics Club took field trips, Camera Club was more of a stay-at-home club. Picture content, camera types and developing techniques were the topics of their meetings.

Interest Growing Through Hobbies

With the enormous enrollment at Maine, one can easily realize that the interests and hobbies of the students are many and varied. Because of such a large variety of interests, there is a great diversity of hobby clubs at Maine. Chess Club, Coin and Stamp Club, Biology Club, and Geology Club were all founded as student interest demanded.

This year field trips, meetings, and other activities all brought students with the same interests together. The members of the various clubs took field trips and held discussions at their meetings, enabling themselves to better understand their hobbies. While enjoying their hobbies together, the students composing their organizations learned constructive ways to spend their leisure time.

Dances Jump As Name Bands Play

The M.A.S.S. "exploded" at the Blue Demon Afterdance.

At Maine several dances are held each year. Winterlude, the Boys' Winter Formal, and the Inaugural Ball, this year's Homecoming Dance, were two of the more traditional dances held. These dances were also the more formal dances open to all classes and were well-attended.

Besides these rather formal and traditional dances, there were several after-dances which were held after interscholastic varsity games and were generally sponsored by a club as a fund-raising activity for the year. The Blue Demon After-Dance, sponsored by Student Council, is always the after-dance which attracts the largest crowd during the year. This dance students were able to invite guests from other schools. Another attraction was the M.A.S.S., a name band in the area. Some Maine students play in the group. All who attended the dance agreed that it was a night well-spent.

"Well, if you're not going to dance with me, I'm leaving."

Tax Ref. Insures Quality Education

On December 14, 1968, the citizens of Maine Township went to the polls. They voted on a tax increase of $1.42 to $1.63 per $100 dollars assessed valuation on their property. The money from this tax increase was to be utilized for academic and scholastic supplies at the three Maine Township High Schools.

The students in Art Club and Student Council who realized the need for these supplies gave of their time to campaign for the referendum. Flyers were passed out in all residential areas and at many of the shopping centers. With the aid of this intensive campaign, the referendum passed after two previous defeats.

The Patio as well as the referendum presented a problem to the administration this year. It had been rumored that a new administrative building was to be constructed in the area that the formal gardens and patio now occupy. The money for construction which had been allotted in former bond referendums was needed for the construction of Maine North. For the present time, the patio and formal gardens will remain and the administration is searching for a place to rent so that their offices can be converted into classrooms.

The "formal gardens," despite its presently run-down appearance was a major topic of dissension at the beginning of the year; many felt it should be preserved.

350 Voice Choir Presents Messiah

The music department's presentation of Handel's Messiah, a Christmas tradition at Maine, took place on December 8. A capacity audience was present for the performance. Members of all of the choral groups formed the 350 voice choir which, accompanied by the concert orchestra, performed Handel's tribute to the Christmas season. The ninety minute performance was highlighted by four soloists: Soprano, Miss Irene Gut; Contralto, Miss Anne Porayko; Tenor, Mr. Tabor Kelly; Bass, Mr. Richard Schreiber.

In addition to the auditorium audience, a large radio audience heard the Messiah on WMTH. The performance was also taped by WMTH, and later sold to members of the choral group.

Demonaires, Dance Band, and Marching Band were all involved in many activities, both in the school and community. They performed at locations ranging from the school auditorium to the fifty yard line of Northwestern University's football stadium.

The major function of the Demonaires, founded in 1966, was to serve as a vocal adjunct to the Stage Band. They performed in V-Show, at the Gobbler's Hobble, the faculty children Christmas party, and in programs at the junior high.

Marching Band's performances have long been the entertainment during halftime at football games. This year's major activity was performing at Northwestern's Band Day.

Dance Band functioned as a service organization. The band performed mainly at formal dances.

Fine Arts Support All School Events

Three of Maine's most active organizations were Orchesis, Debate, and Art Club. All three were involved in many extracurricular, community, and interscholastic activities, giving members an opportunity to gain experience in performing before others.

Orchesis had a busy year, beginning with tryouts held in early October. The girls learned basic dance skills and were divided into junior and senior groups. The first major activity of Orchesis was performing in V-Show. The girls also performed in the Spring Musical and in a dance show for the Art Festival. Miss Schmitz explained that for the show, "The girls do the set designs, choreography, staging, and costumes on their own. At the beginning of the year a candy sale was held to help pay the expenses of the show." The show was the climax of the year's activities.

The debate team competed on levels from freshman to varsity. The topic for debaters was the military draft. At the various tournaments, Maine debaters explored the pros and cons of this issue.

Art Club was probably involved in more activities than any other organization. They provided scenery for many school productions, such as V-Show. Art Club's major undertaking was the third art festival. An Illinois Sesquicentennial float and promotion of the tax referendum were also activities of the Art Club. To finance their activities, Art Club held fund raising events.

Club Members Have Fun, Develop Skills

Athletic organizations provided a form of recreation for the students at Maine. Among these clubs were Riding Club, Girls' Bowling Club, Boys' Bowling Club, and Ski Club. The main activities of these various clubs throughout this year and throughout past years has been the practice of each respective sport in order to assist the individual club member in improving his skills in that sport.

Among the highlights of Riding Club's history was the opening of the club to boys in 1964. Girls' Bowling Club sponsored the annual Scotch Doubles where each member brought a member of the faculty. Weekend trips are part of Ski Club's historical highlights, and Boys' Bowling Club has its founding to look back on.

This year these various clubs each held a banquet to honor the departing officers and to congratulate the new ones.

Students Study Foreign Culture

Within the last several years, the language clubs have been among the fastest growing organizations at Maine. In addition to growing together, each began approximately the same way. When Russian, German, French, Spanish, and Italian were first added to the curriculum, student interest in foreign history and culture grew along with knowledge of each foreign language. The result of this interest was the formation of the language clubs. Club members learned a great deal, and they managed to have quite a bit of fun while doing so. The clubs studied many aspects of each nation: music, art, literature, and history. In addition, the language clubs sponsored social activities such as roller skating parties, Valentine's Day parties, and floatbuilding for Homecoming. Student appetites also received a treat, courtesy of the language clubs. In their only joint venture, the clubs sponsored a Christmas Party, to which club members brought Christmas dishes from each country. No matter what a person's interests were, learning, socializing, or eating, language clubs offered something for him.

WMTH Presents Diverse Schedule

For the past nine years, WMTH, one of six high school FM radio stations broadcasting in Illinois, has been transmitting from Maine East. In 1959 the idea of a radio station was originated in Student Council. An appropriation was granted, the required equipment was bought, and soon the idea of WMTH became a reality.

The operation of the station resembled those found on college campuses. The program schedule included something for everybody. In addition to regularly scheduled programs, such as "Teen Scene" and "Jazz and Chatter" the station broadcast special events such as the annual "Messiah" Concert, other musical concerts, and all home varsity football and basketball games. From 11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. every school day, WMTH presented listening pleasure for everybody.

Actors Air Views On Thespian Play

"You Can't Take it with You" was this year's Spring Play. Thespian sponsored tryouts were open to all students. All that was required to try out was for the student to attend one of the three days of tryouts and to fill out a form with a physical description of himself and a listing of any stage experience. Then Mr. Kleinfeld, director, went through the cards and assigned parts of a selected scene to students to act out. On their performance he determined the student's qualifications for the part.

What was the reason students, disregarding the odd hours and strenuous rehearsals, still tried out? What was the attraction that drew so many? Students told why.

"I like working around theater and most of all being on stage ..."

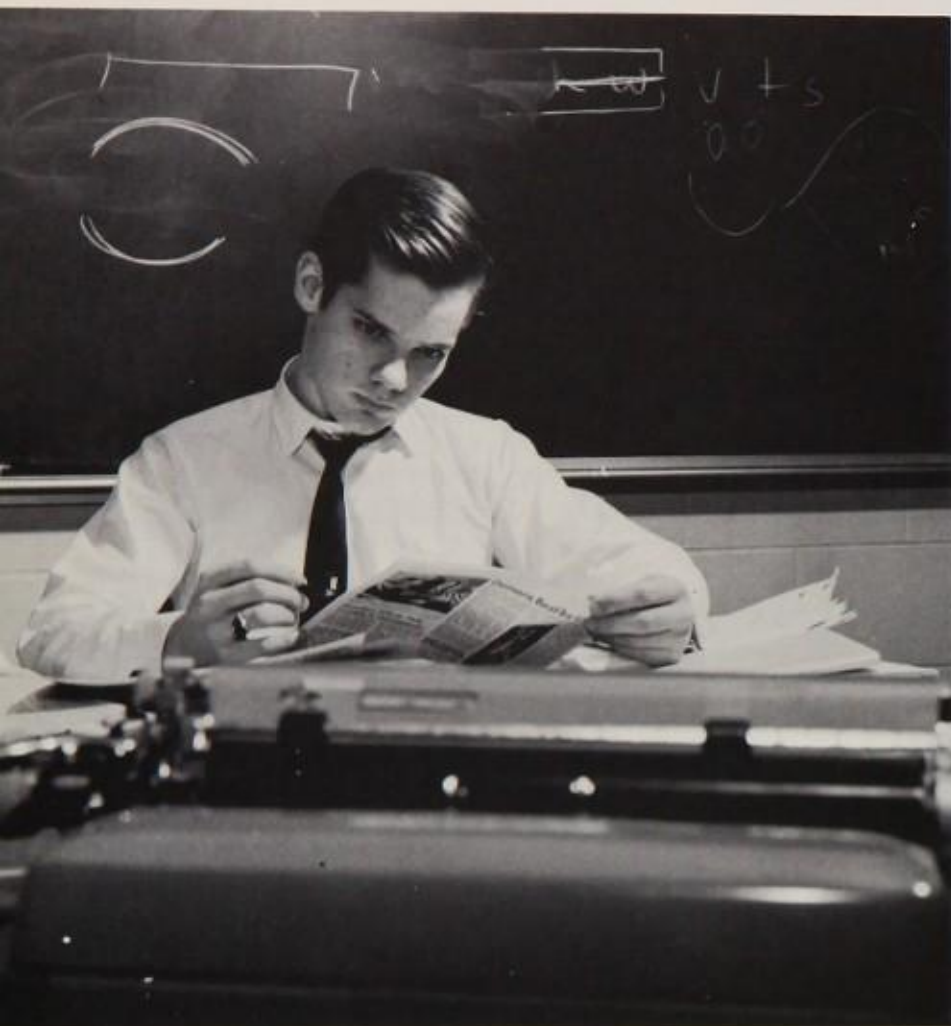

"I love drama and anything that has to do with theater. Also the part of Essie was a lot like me."

"... I figured even if I didn't make a part, that trying would give me some good experience."

"After working backstage on productions I thought that it was time I try and get into the real action of things."

This was what the enthusiasm was built on, the personal feelings of the actors toward the theater and acting. Enthusiasm was what made the play the success it was.

What's News? Pioneer Reports It To Maine

Within the pages of the Pioneer, published bi-monthly, information could be found on the activities of clubs, Student Council, sports events, and the latest on student opinion. As deadlines neared, the Pioneer office always bustled with activity: the reporters turned interviews into complete articles, the sponsor assisted the staff, and the editors deleted unnecessary material. Despite close calls, the Pioneer staff met every deadline and the papers could be seen circulating throughout the school on every other Thursday.

Lens Marks 50th Yr. Of Serving Maine

The 1969 Lens marked the fiftieth consecutive year in which the yearbook has recorded events at Maine. In these fifty years, the yearbook has undergone many changes, both in format and content. Such changes have been instituted to keep pace with the changes in the school itself.

In 1919 Maine's first yearbook, The Quill, was published. Today's Maine student would probably have difficulty recognizing it as the yearbook. It was bound between soft covers, and was only 7 1/2 x 10 inches, much smaller than today's yearbook. In addition to the usual contents, the book contained 114 pages of advertising. However, during the past fifty years, the style of today's modern yearbook took shape.

In 1927, the yearbook was first bound between hard covers. Ten years later, several major changes were made. The name of the yearbook was changed from The Quill to Lens. Advertising was eliminated in 1937, and there was a large increase in the number of pages in the book. Nine years later, an activities index was added, and in 1955 the present indexing system was initiated. The yearbook's first color picture was included in 1955. Seven years later, the first features section was added.

By all standards, the 1969 yearbook was quite a success. 2700 people bought the Lens, making this yearbook the most popular in Maine's history. What they bought was the largest, most imaginative yearbook ever published at Maine. To commemorate the fiftieth anniversary, a special sixteen page color section was added. Another extra sixteen pages were devoted to expanded sports coverage. We feel the '69 Lens was a fine ending to the Lens's first half-century of recording events at Maine.

Musical Revolt: Up With People

During the '68-'69 school year various projects were undertaken involving a major part of the student body. These projects included the Brotherhood Assembly, the Santa Building Contest, the Faculty Children's Christmas Party, and the Dada Art Show.

At the beginning of the year Art Club sponsored the Dada Art Show. It was open to all students. Next in line, also sponsored by Art Club, was the Santa Building Contest. Homerooms, clubs, or individuals could participate. Original and unusual Santas were the goal of those who participated. Following this contest was the Faculty Children's Christmas Party. Several organizations participated in this function. The last item on the activities' agenda this year was the Brotherhood Assembly. After the Brotherhood Awards were presented a talented group of young people, part of the "Up With People" movement gave various musical renditions of their idea of brotherhood. Instead of being held at the start of the day, this assembly was held eighth period, a novelty.

Two points of discussion became a part of life at Maine. One of these conflicts involved the abolition of the dress code, and the other involved the establishment of a Niles Twp.-Maine Twp. Junior College. A student forum, sponsored by Student Council, revealed several opposing opinions of the dress code at Maine. The Junior College discussion came to light in the latter part of the year. The resolution of these controversies will be seen in future years.

"V" Show Relives Maine's History

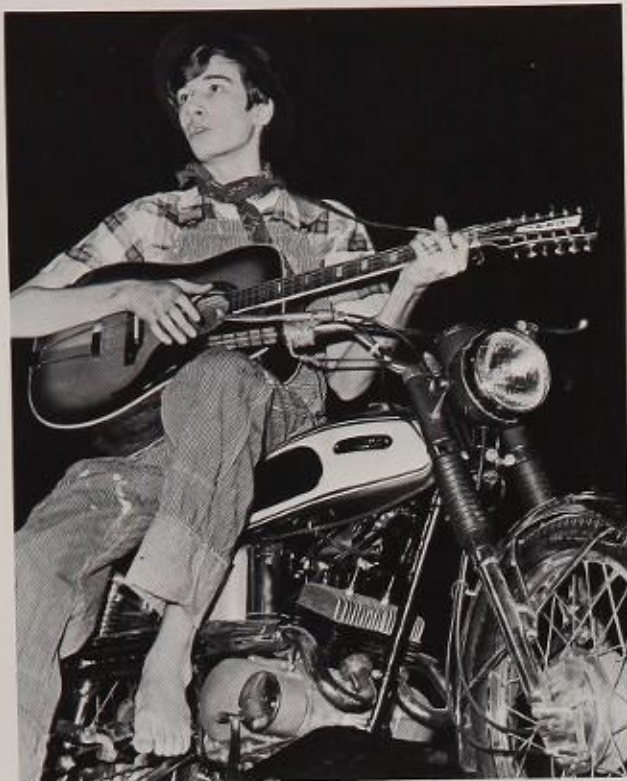

Each year, for the past twenty-five, the excitement of V-Show was reborn. Yearly, fresh and eager, talented students brought their vitality to the stage. The auditorium swells with vivacity and color and, when the band's final notes are played, the audience and the performers leave with warm memories which last another year.

But the memories were formed the busy weeks before the performance. Direction, scenery, make-up, costumes, choreography and writing call for the efforts of many hands, heads and hearts. Pride in achieving plus all the funny and/or irritating incidents belong to the workers behind the finished performance.

The very qualities which have made V-show a favorite tradition at Maine insure its future.

Activities Include AFS, Food Drive

During the course of the year Student Council sponsored many events. It organized assemblies to introduce freshmen to their class candidates. Student Council also held the Student-Faculty Tea, the Food Basket Drive, AFS Week, Election Week, the Blue Demon After Dance, "V" Show, and all Homecoming activities. The March of Dimes collection and all publicity and ticket sales for "V" Show were conducted by Student Council.

The American Field Service, a private, non-profit organization, designed to give students the opportunity to experience life in a foreign country, hoped to foster friendship and increased understanding among people. Through practical experience, AFS developed an appreciation and respect for the similarities and differences of people.

After AFS representatives arrived they were encouraged to participate in the life of their American community, where they attended the senior year of high school and lived in carefully selected homes as members of the family. Maine received its first AFS student in 1962 and was host in 1968-'69 to a student from Chile, Rico Salles.

S.C. Voices Student Views, Suggestions

Improved student body-administration Communication was the major goal of this year's Student Council. Miss Simmons, Student Council sponsor, explained, "Student Council is not really a student government. Instead, it acts as a mediary between the administration and the students." This year each member of Student Council was given a 40 page orientation booklet, enabling the student representative to better understand the structure of Student Council and its role as a student-administration go-between. Tangible results from these efforts were provided for the students in the form of 2 changes in the rules on dress and appearance involving longer sideburns and the acceptance of slacks at afterdances.

Of Students . . .

Students

The objects of it all:

The facilities, aiding the learning process,

The instruction, furthering gains in knowledge,

The counselling, providing needed advice.

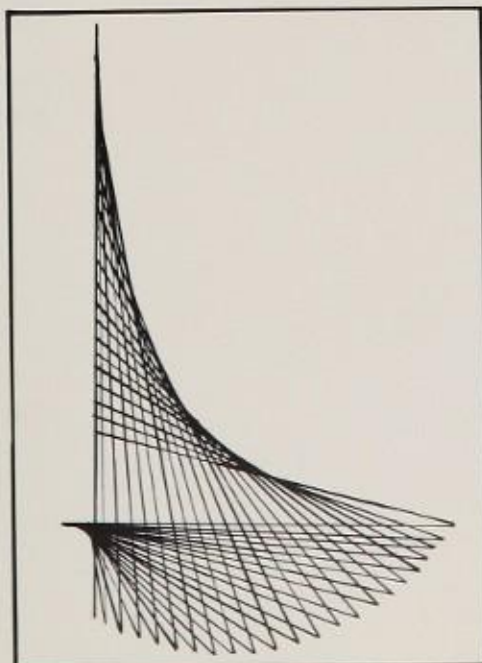

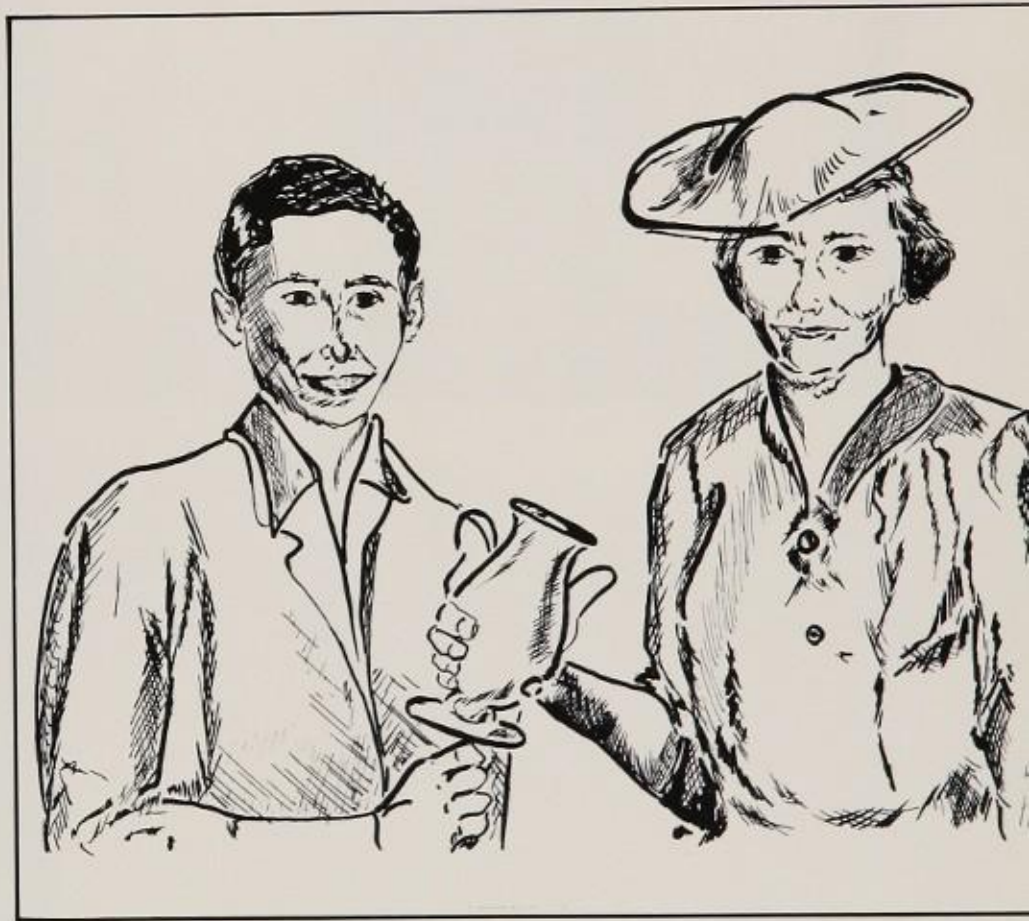

Because of students

it all exists, and because it exists, the students

Grow.

Of Experience . . .

Freshmen entered Maine as packages of confused and lost energy. They were afraid of the upper-classmen, afraid of being late to class, and afraid of dropping their books in the middle of the hall. To lessen the chances of being sent to the wrong room by a "helpful" student they committed to memory the floor plan of the school. Neatly arranged in their wallets were their I.D. cards, activity ticket, bus pass, and elevator pass. But still they weren't ready for Maine. They hadn't undergone the long lunch lines, the Homecoming fight, waiting for buses, or getting caught for cutting classes. It was their first year; the year of experience.

Freshmen learn the importance of school and class spirit at an all school assembly where class competition activates their fight to become number one.

Of Challenge . . .

CLASS OFFICERS: Gayle Dakof; treasurer, Dave Hiller; president, Jim Grimes; VP, Nancy Dudek; secretary.
SPONSORS: Mrs. Lasko, Mr. Harrison

With the responsibility of being a class, thinking and working together, building and projecting together, failing and winning together, this was a year of challenge to the Class of '71. The challenge began with Homecoming, the designing and building of a float, and competing against the classes with spirit, work, and integrity. Although the sophomore float, "We're Hot On Their Tails," didn't place, the responsibilities and challenges didn't flag. The Food Drive proved to be a successful drive for the sophomores and the largest class at Maine participated with full interest. The ordering of class rings brought a feeling of strong ties and establishment while the responsibility of raising class funds for future events such as the proms reached its goal through the candy sale in February. Their annual PTC Party in the spring brought the students even closer together to prove themselves a class. As the year came to a close the sophomores looked back and realized their mistakes and also realized their achieved goals: challenges which will help the Class of '71 to assume the responsibility of an upperclass.

During floatbuilding Juniors yell "We're number One," and proved it the next day by winning the floatbuilding competition.

Of Spirit . . .

"From Homecoming to the Prom, the most successful year our class had," was the way Class President Mike Margolis described this junior year, the year of spirit. The first junior triumph came at the kickoff dance, where the class of '70 was awarded the first place trophy for winning the Pep Club membership drive. Then at homecoming, the juniors triumphed again over "Avis" (the number two class, the seniors) by winning the floatbuilding competition. Non-competitive events also kept juniors busy. During late November, it was impossible to walk more than ten feet in the halls without receiving a sales pitch from a junior candy salesman. The funds from the sale went towards the junior prom, "The Impossible Dream," a climactic event to a memorable year.

The Tri-Maine Council, a class council activity hosted by the junior class, once again showed that the junior class was the class of spirit, not only at Maine East but in Maine Township. Throughout the year, the Class Council was kept busy organizing the many junior activities.

Of Decision . . .

Through four years of trial and error the Senior Class of '69 has learned to make decisions. Through the first three years of high school various courses of study were pursued by individuals and futures were often considered. As graduation grew near, the seniors' career decisions were more and more sure. As individual decisions slackened and pressure was somewhat lessened, the seniors enjoyed the silliness and fun of Senior Week; with the culmination of the year the seniors tried something new: the Senior Dinner-Dance, a combination of Senior Banquet and Prom. As their decision drew to a close, the seniors went on to fulfill their career and college choices, knowing that this year, their year of decision, played a vital part in their lives.

Bruce Zweiban learns to make decisions through his study of physics and, as seen by his safety-pinned glasses, he knows how to make practical decisions.

Grid Effort Hurt By Weak Offense

Plagued by an inconsistent offense, which was shut out four times, the varsity football team had a 2-6 record overall, 2-5 in WSC competition. The 2 varsity triumphs came against R-B and York. The Demons also played a fine game against one of the state's football powers, Hinsdale Central. A determined Maine defense stopped several Hinsdale drives deep in Maine territory, but eventually the Demons fell, 28-0. During the rest of the season, the team just couldn't get untracked.

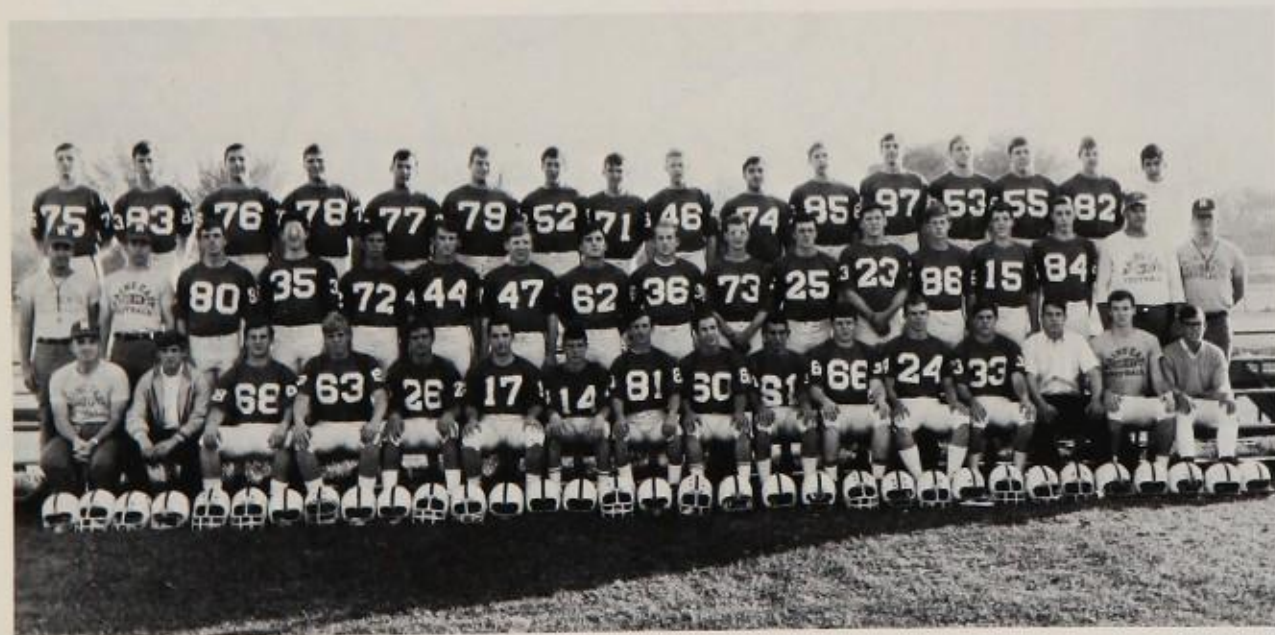

Individual standouts were all-conference choices Paul Weber and Wayne Babcock. Al DeRusha, who returned kicks and played in the backfield, was Maine's most effective ground gainer.

Sophomore Gridders Have Winless Year

Maine's frosh-soph football team shared a common problem with the varsity; a very ineffective offense. During their 0-7-1 season, the Demons were able to put only thirteen points on the scoreboard. They were shut out during their first six games, although they did manage to get a scoreless tie with Riverside-Brookfield. After absorbing a 48-0 Homecoming shellacking at the hands of Lyons, the sophs finally scored a touchdown against Downers, but they still lost, 28-7. The sophs finished the season by falling to Glenbard by a 48-6 score. Despite the fact that the soph grid season was quite a disappointment, there were several fine individual efforts, particularly by running backs Dave Rodnick and Bruce Potenza. Another sophomore, Pete Gross, played on the varsity team.

Harriers Take 12 Meets, Bloom Invit.

Perhaps Maine's most dedicated athletes this year were the Demon harriers. Thanks to Coach John Coughlan's intensive training program, Maine developed into one of the area's top cross country powers. The harriers ran throughout the summer, and many attained membership in the "500 Mile Club" and "1000 Mile Club." Once the season began, they won ten consecutive dual meets, before losing to York. In all, Maine had a 12-1 mark in dual meets. Maine's top performance at an invitational came at the Bloom meet, in which the Demons placed first among 20 schools. Despite this fine record, the Demons, who competed in Illinois's toughest cross country conference, were only able to place third in the conference meet. Maine also took third place in the state district meet, which was held here.

Although this season was an excellent one, Maine looked forward to an even brighter future in cross country. Next year's varsity will have many returning lettermen, in addition to runners being brought up from this year's fine frosh-soph squad. As a result, Maine's success in cross country should continue into the future.

Demon Kickers Cry, "We're Number One!"

Three years of soccer—and Maine had a state champion! Under Coach Robert Dollaske, the Demons had an 11-2-1 record, losing only to Evanston and New Trier East. This year's team, the first to have seniors in most starting positions, had been aiming for the state championship since the end of the '67-'68 season. The team began practice in June and continued to practice twice a week during the summer months. In addition to having intra-squad scrimmages during these practice sessions, they competed in a park district League. Daily conditioning and practice drills started the week before school began.

The Demons began the season with a relatively easy 5-0 win over St. Joseph's, followed by a more difficult 2-0 victory over Waukegan. The team kept up its winning ways, and it soon became apparent that the Maine-Evanston game would be the showdown for the state crown. The Demons topped Evanston, 3-2, thereby earning the state championship.

In addition to team honors, Maine kickers also earned individual recognition. Four players, Stan Peters, Scott Hiller, Ken Sauer, and Chuck Sellergren were named to the all-state team. Because of this year's enormous successes, Maine's soccer program continued to grow rapidly. Large crowds attended many of this year's home games. As a result, next year four home games will be played in the stadium on Friday nights.

Soph Soccer Team Loses Only 4 Games

Defense minded, and lacking scoring punch, the frosh-soph soccer team was involved in many low-scoring games during their 4-5-4 season. The team didn't score more than five goals until its fifth game, but it also held opponents to one or less goals in all but one of these games. The team didn't score more than two goals in all but two of its games, but fine defensive work kept the sophs' record respectable. Ties were also a common occurrence during the season. On three separate occasions the team was involved in a 1-1 deadlock. The team's top player was John Johnsen, who was playing his second year of soccer on the frosh-soph level.

Upsets Highlight Demon Cage Season

The varsity basketball team began the year with high hopes for an excellent season. Returning letterman Ken Sipiora and several seniors up from last year's JV squad formed the nucleus of this year's team. The cagers began the season with a home game against New Trier West, a game which turned out to be one of the most exciting of the season. The Demons quickly marched off to a large lead, only to falter in the second half, allowing New Trier to catch up. At the end of regulation play, the score was tied. But in the overtime period Stan Peters' driving lay-up, with seconds to play, gave Maine a thrilling one point win. Although this was a fine start, the cagers had a disappointing season. They finished seventh in the WSC with a 3-11 record. In non-conference competition the Demons had a 1-3 mark. However, two major upsets brightened the season. The first was against New Trier, which turned out to be one of the top teams in the Chicagoland area. The other major upset was against Downers Grove, one of the finest teams in the conference. Despite the 46 points of Downers' star, Jeff Dawson, the Demons beat Downers by a 70-68 score. Other conference wins came against Hinsdale Central and Proviso West.

Maine's 4-14 record was not really an accurate indication of the team's play. The Demons played a very difficult schedule yet most of the games were decided by just a few points. One of the problems which hampered the Demons, particularly Roger Saunders, was fouling. Despite these difficulties, the Demons played exciting basketball throughout the season.

Soph Cagers Win 3 Of 4 Non-WSC Games

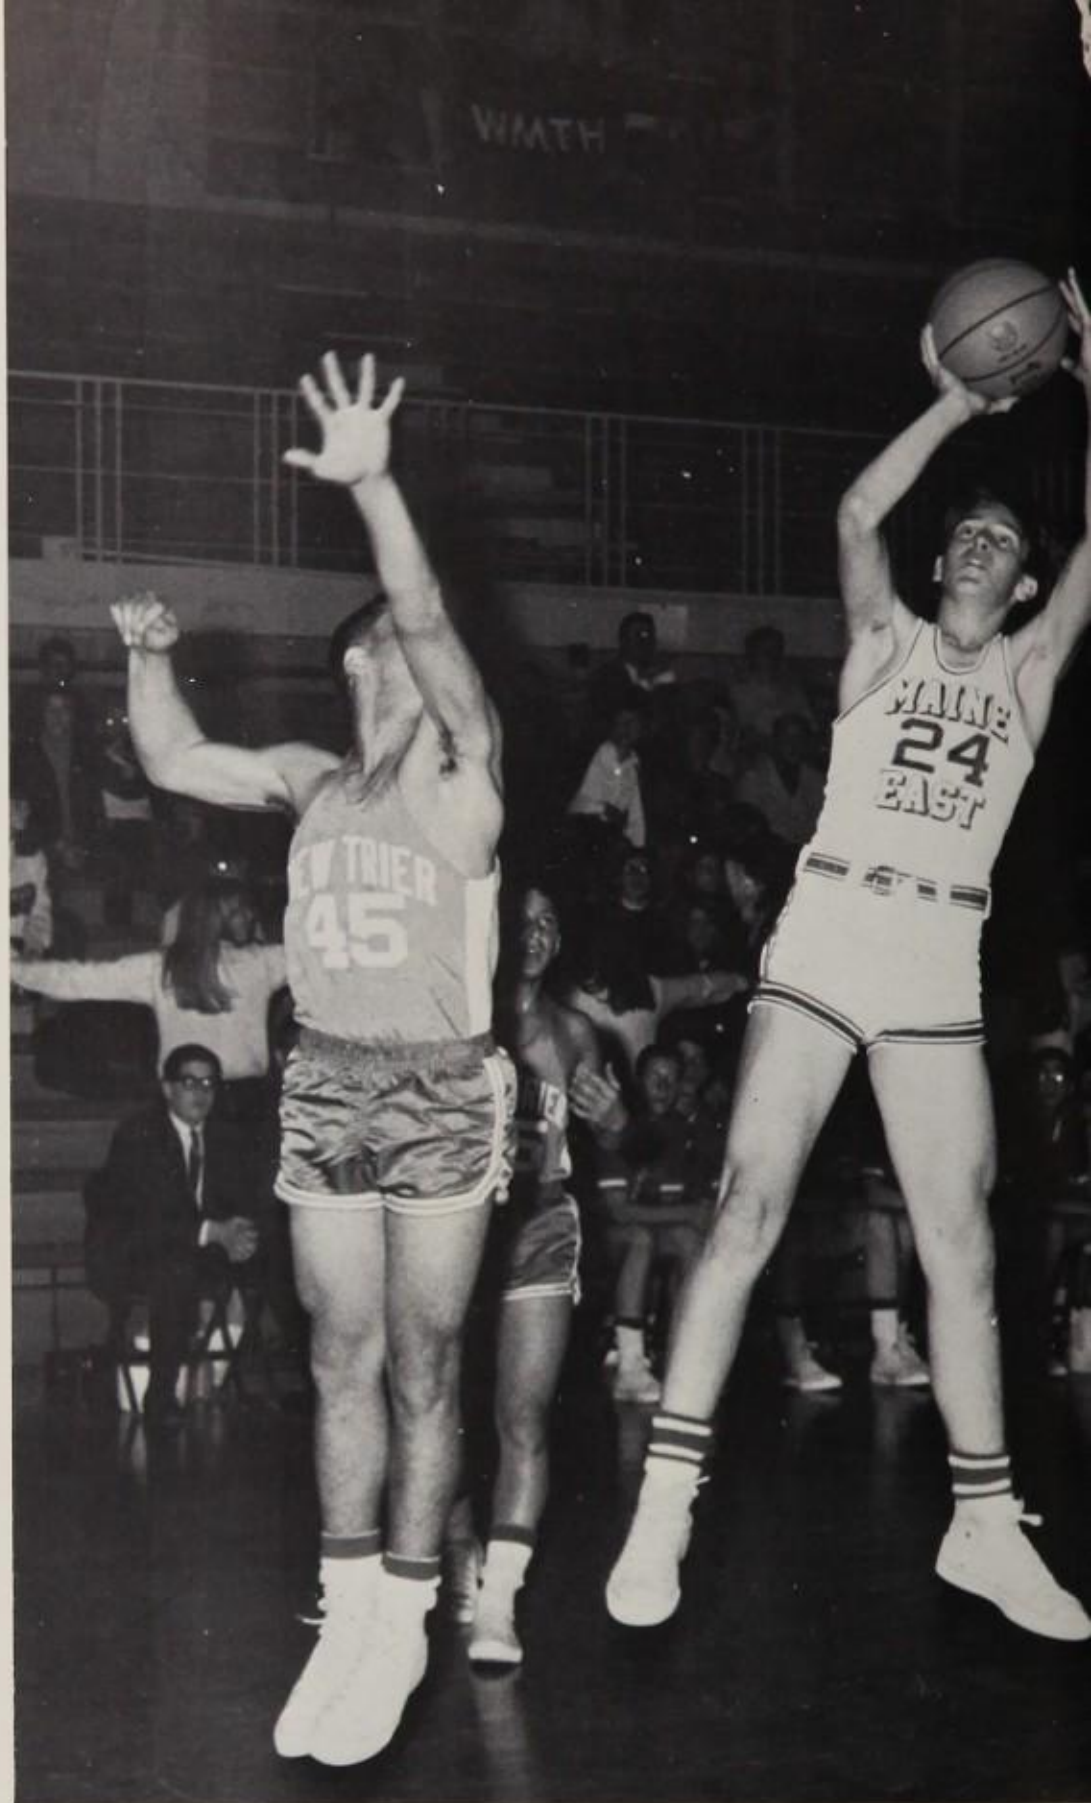

This year's frosh-soph basketball team was one of the strongest soph cage teams which Maine has had in the last few years. The Demons had a 5-9 mark in conference play, but overall the team was 8-10. The sophs got off to a fine start, winning their first three games. Among these wins was a 59-54 triumph over Evanston. The star in this game, as well as in many others throughout the season, was Mark Bondeson. Bondeson, a lanky freshman, did a fine job in both the rebounding and scoring departments. Despite the fine play of Bondeson and other individual stars, such as forward Dale Deschamps and guard Jack Cronin, the soph pace cooled as the season progressed. After winning four of their first six games, they settled down to playing just under .500 ball. The season as a whole, however, was still one of the finest in recent memory.

Gymnasts Take 3rd In Conference Meet

Since 1956, when gymnastics was first added to the intra-scholastic sports program at Maine, Demon teams have been steadily improving. This year's team had a 6-7 record in dual meets. However, the team's performance in conference competition was markedly better than its showing in non-WSC meets, as is evidenced by the 5-3 Demon mark in conference meets and the 1-4 record in non-conference competition. The gymnasts also did a fine job in the conference meet, taking third place. Maine had two first place winners, junior Bob Baldocchi on the rings, and senior Larry Dilger on the side horse. In addition to Dilger and Baldocchi, three other gymnasts formed the backbone of the team. Senior Larry Stone specialized in the side horse, senior Mike Livorsi competed in both the parallel bars and the trampoline competition, and junior Keith Field worked on the rings.

Gymnasts Take 2nd, Host State Meet

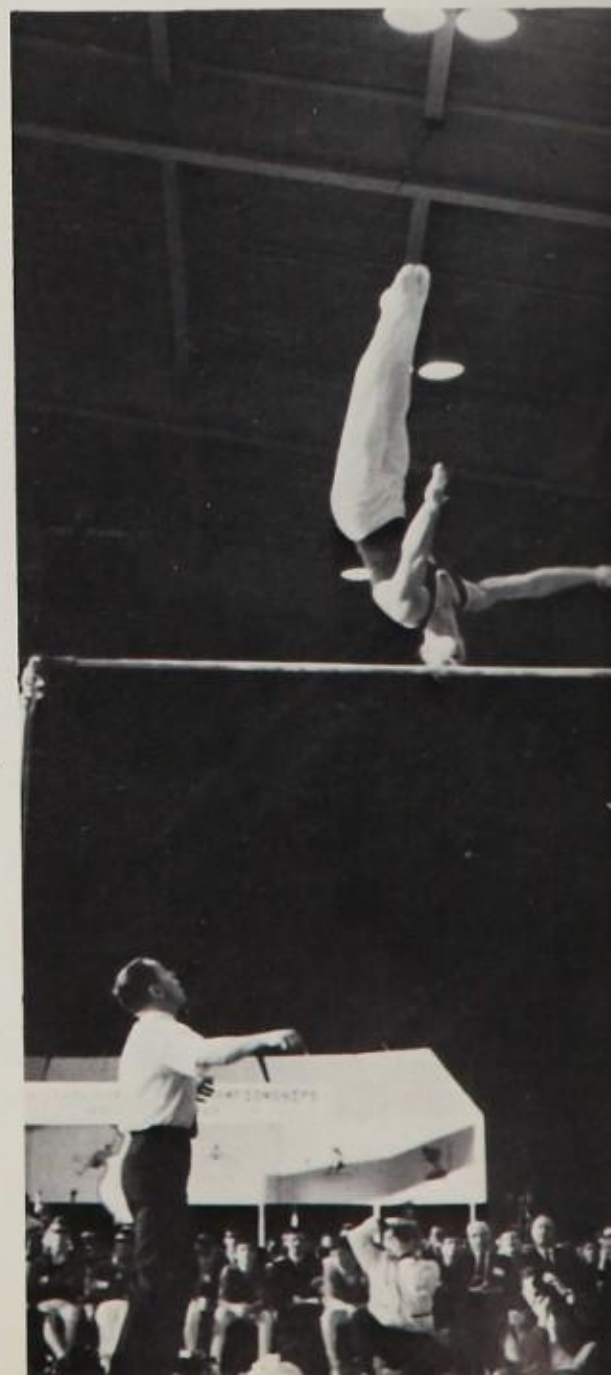

The 1968 State Gymnastics Meet was held at Maine East before an overflow crowd of 4,000 spectators. The partisan crowd roared its approval as Dennis Mazur of Maine took three first places, in horizontal bar, parallel bar, and all-around competition. Other individual winners were Ken Barr of Prospect, in side horse, and Terry Haines of Arlington on Trampoline. The Arlington team was the winner in tumbling events. In team standings, Maine took second place, having been just edged out by Arlington. The Meet provided many thrills for both the fieldhouse spectators and the many people who viewed the meet on WGN-TV.

Larry Dilger, Maine's third participant goes through his sidehorse routine.

Instead of jumping and yelling, cheerleaders Sue Heenan and Cindy Milleville, along with the rest of the Fieldhouse spectators, give their complete attention to the performance of one of the state's top gymnasts.

Gene Kalin, second place winner, executes a handstand on the parallel bars.

Mermen Continue Maine Tradition

Coach Davitt of the swimming team heaped high praise on his 1968-69 swimmers when he declared this as "one of my best teams."

Maine's tradition is rich. In 1928 Maine won a national swimming championship; the teams have also held state championships. This, then, is both high praise and challenge.

Some of the top performers scoring points for this year's team were Bob Miller, whose speciality was the free-style sprint, Arnie Lang and Rich Eckaus, who also competed in the distance free style events. In the butterfly competition, Dave Zinn churned the waters. Junior Mike Sedjo also proved that concentration and grace are a part of his diving achievements. Bob Barrie saw to it that his lane was in command of the individual medley.

In invitational meets Maine East placed fourth in the Niles West Invitational and second in the Morton West Invitational, losing first place by a scant three points. One of the highlights of the year was the victory over Maine South.

Maine East swimming teams have always excited much public interest. In 1930, during the depression, student and parent groups raised fifty thousand dollars toward a new pool, which is a remarkable sum and was even more so at the time. The swimming teams at Maine East have always performed well, and the 1968-69 team was a credit to the tradition.

Ivar Moi Places Second In State

The varsity wrestling team finished its 1968-69 season with an 11-1 record. The only non-conference loss was quickly recovered by the team's hard work and long practices. Not only did the team recover its loss, as a very high winning team, but by also placing, as a team, first in conference, third in sectionals, and fifteenth in the state meet.

The team's top wrestlers were two sophomores: Phil Wald in the 103 weight class and Pete Gross at 165 pounds, who took first in both conference and district meets. MVP Dave Maple held first place in conference, district, and sectionals, finishing with a 25-1 record. Although he didn't place in state, he defeated a former state champ. Barry Silverstein and Scott Verner were also both conference and district champs with Barry placing second in sectionals. Completing the list is Hon. Capt. Ivar Moi at 145 pounds. Ivar completed his year long record at 25-1, winning conference, district, and sectional meets, and placing second in state.

It is needless to say that Coach Riek is proud of a team that finished its seasonal record with such a great number of victories.

Underclassmen Rule

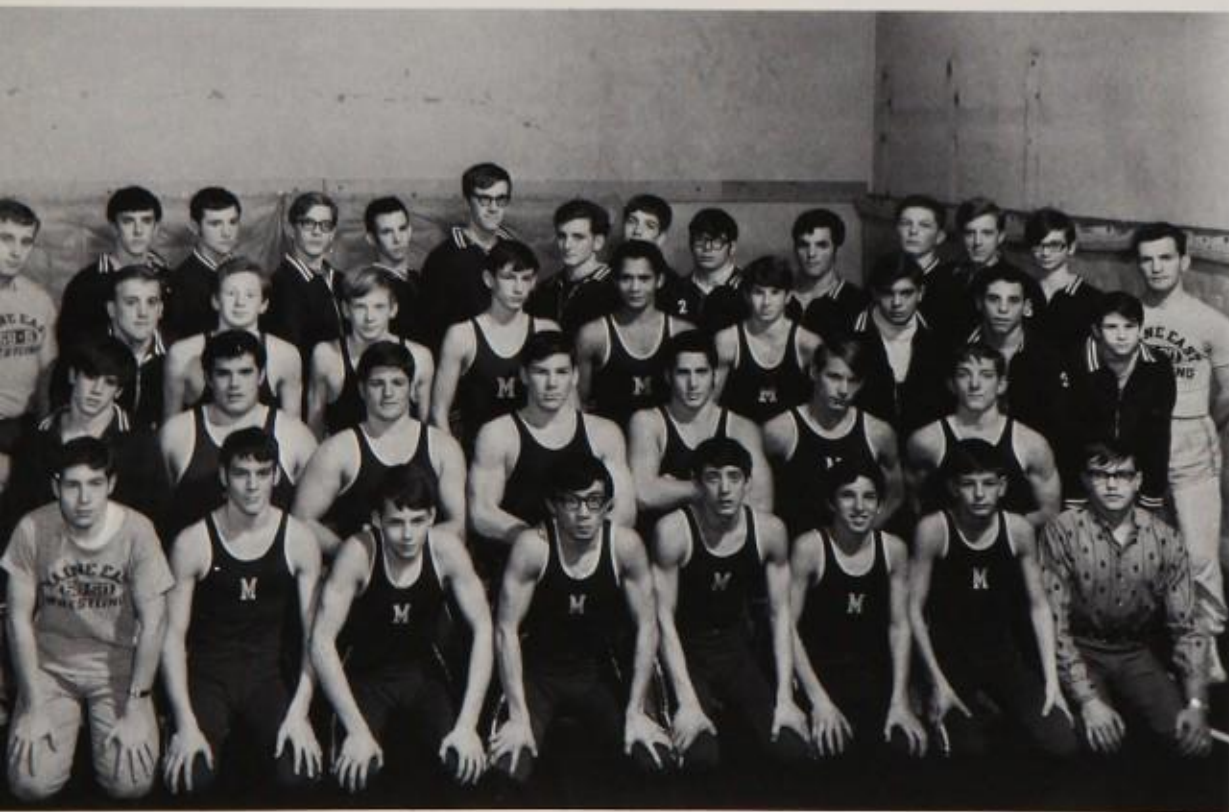

WSC Wrestling

Maine East's sophomore wrestling team compiled a most impressive record during the past year. The grapplers had a 6-1 record in conference meets, which earned them a share of the WSC Co-Championship. The key victory in the team's drive to the title was a 25-8 win over a previously unbeaten Proviso West team. In non-conference meets the team had a spotless 5-0 mark. During these meets, the grapplers often ran up lopsided scores, such as the 54-0 tally against Forest View and the 49-2 score against New Trier East. The lone sophomore setback was a 29-21 loss to Lyons. Many individuals ran up excellent records during the course of the season. Among the team's most consistent performers were 112 pounder Bill Lipphardt, who had a 17-0 record, Pete Gross, who turned in a 15-0 mark at 165 pounds, and Mark Sompolski, who won 16 matches at the 95 pound level.

A special note of recognition should also be given to the freshman wrestlers, under Coach Larry Wagner. The Frosh Demons won all 10 of their meets. In doing so, they lengthened the team's winning streak over the last few years to 31 meets. Needless to say, the team was conference champion, and was considered one of the top squads in the suburban area.

Track Team Gains Overall Strength

In 1968-69 Maine East's fine track team continued its proud heritage by building onto its strong tradition. More than 140 boys proudly wore Maine East track numerals in competition this year. While Coach Eck described the results of the year as part of his "rebuilding"-program, the track team did perform meritoriously.

Under Coach Eck, Brian Block heaved the heavy iron ball as star of the shot-putters. Brad Green and Steve Reuter soared high over the metal rail as pole vaulters. Dave Hoffman carried the blue and white colors in 440 races, and Jeff Gensen starred in the broad jump. Bruce Rutz and Bill Neuman were distance runners for the Demons. Sophomores demonstrating great potential on the varsity team include Les Joseph and Dave Hendricks, who ran the 440 as their speciality, and John Keane and Lenny Harrelson, who ran in the two mile event.

Defense, Pitching, Star On Diamond

Maine East's '67-'68 baseball team had a fairly good year posting an 8-6 record in WSC play, and a 1-3 mark in non-conference competition. The Demons owed most of their success to fine pitching and a solid defense. Led by pitcher Ed Groenwald, shortstop Rob Schroeder, and pitcher-outfielder Jack Liggett, Maine was in the thick of the conference race for most of the season. However, the Demons, unable to recover from a very poor start, failed to take the conference championship. In state tournament play, the team was quickly eliminated from competition. They started off by beating Notre Dame 1-0, but at the Niles West Regional Ed Groenwald lost a 2-1 heartbreaker to Glenbrook.

Sophs Take Share Of Baseball Title

In '67-'68 frosh-soph baseball, Maine East was the king of the West Suburban Conference, the second year in a row in which Maine has taken frosh-soph honors. However, in '67-'68, the sophs' 9-5 conference mark only earned them a share of the conference co-championship, instead of an outright title. In non-conference games the Demons had a 2-2 record, giving them an 11-7 mark overall. The team got off to a rather slow start, as it won only four of its first eight games. However, the Demons then got red hot, winning seven out of eight games, before closing the season with a doubleheader loss to Downers North. While winning their share of the conference championship, the sophs retained their fine defense and pitching, which they had displayed the previous year in winning the freshman title. In addition, the team improved greatly in the batting department. The team leaders in most individual areas were Bob Reimann and Randy Schawel. Another individual standout was Frank Knopf, who played first base on the sophomore team as a freshman.

GAA Divides Itself Into Sport Groups

G.A.A. was founded, as the majority of clubs were, when the need became apparent. With the introduction of new sports into the curriculum new intramural teams were founded. Teams that could compete at a higher level were soon demanded because of the advancement of many of the girls.

Under the guidance of Miss Farquer the G.A.A. enjoyed a new method of organization. Instead of having general officers, each intramural sport had a chairman. Besides these sports chairmen and a social chairman, captains of the swimming, tennis, badminton, and gymnastics teams and the presidents of the various G.A.A. clubs were selected.

The additional activities required a different schedule of meetings and activities. The sports chairmen, captains and presidents attended general G.A.A. meetings and reported back to their individual groups. They also assisted the sponsor, took attendance at all meetings of their particular organization, saw to the setting up and putting away of equipment and publicized their sport both in the daily bulletin and on the G.A.A. bulletin board. This type of organization permitted both a better club and more students an opportunity to practice leadership.

Through the program of G.A.A. sponsored intramural sports the girls who participated were able to improve their skills in a particular sport. After attaining a certain level of skill the student is then able to advance to a team if there is one for that sport. These teams, including tennis and badminton, composed of skilled girls, are then able to compete inter-scholastically.

Precision Clubs Demand Fitness

The members of the Terrapin Swim Club present a water ballet each year. The routines and graceful movements performed by each girl have been practiced many times before the presentation.

Several months before the presentation, the lovely mermaids, along with their sponsor, Miss Gomley, met to work out the basic form routine of their ballet. Innovations and changes were made during practices as new stunts are learned and new routines tried. By the end of the year, when the ballet is presented, the stunts performed by the girls were worked into highly graceful routines.

For graceful and daring girls to whom water is not an invitation, Maine offered the thrill of gymnastics. To those who enjoyed heights and found unusual and rapid movements a challenge the uneven parallel bars beckoned. To those who wished to improve their power of concentration and dance skills the balance beam offered the challenge. For fun and fitness the trampoline and horse were included. Many Maine girls participated in all areas of this sport while others specialized. Altogether they composed the Girls' Gymnastics Team of Maine East.

The Speed Swimming team offered yet another challenge to girls who were exact and precise in their action and did not like to wait to see the results of their effort, but would rather see what they were working toward. Competition, good-sportsmanship, speed, and coordination were the key forces in this sport. Speed swimming was a sport of the girl who cared not for the graceful moves of gymnastics or synchronized swimming, but rather the coordination and rapid movements of speed swimming.

Terrapin members try out a routine for their show.

P.E. Interests You? Try For Leadership

In 1953 Pat Meyer developed a totally new concept for the Physical Education department. In addition to the regular P.E. classes students with more interest and skill were offered a chance to participate more fully in the program. After filling out a questionnaire and collecting the required teacher recommendations, students, after careful evaluation, were selected to be enrolled in the Junior and Senior Leader branch of the P.E. department. This program gave the student a challenge, and helped develop a sense of responsibility and further the desire to study and to teach Physical Education.

Those involved in the Junior Leader Course were taught expanded rules, skills, and drills in P.E. They discussed the problem of leadership and how to help make P.E. enjoyable for the student. Any discipline problem, such as cutting school or smoking on the part of the leader resulted in the dismissal of the student from the course. Further requirement was that the student maintain a passing grade in the course.

When the Junior Leader year is completed the student becomes a Senior Leader and is given the responsibility of assisting a regular gym teacher in handling the class. They are given the chance to teach a few classes and give attention to those requiring it.

The purpose of the program is to develop those inherent leadership capabilities which might otherwise hibernate because of lack of opportunity. The department further hopes to assist each student in this program toward development of the total person as a better member of society.

Cheerleaders Help Prove Maine No. 1

As the year drew to a close many people reminisced about Homecoming, the football, soccer, basketball games and the wrestling meets; and they realized the enthusiasm, spirit and pep demonstrated and created throughout the school by the cheerleaders. At the beginning of the year the Frosh-Soph squad was selected and at the end of the year the Varsity squads were chosen. The girls composing each squad were chosen for their pep, enthusiasm, poise, co-ordination and personal appearance. Everyday after school, all three squads worked hard perfecting and learning cheers. Last minute practices before games and meets gave all the "final touches."

Through the formation of a new squad of cheerleaders, soccer players and wrestlers were "professionally" cheered on for the first time. All three squads cheered at the pep rallies and created the spirit and enthusiasm throughout the school the morning before a game. The atmosphere of smiles and energy was still in the school until the end of the games, in victory or defeat. To the cheerleaders, who learned the back-breaking finishes to many new cheers, the school owes its gratitude because the cheerleaders helped Maine prove it is "Number One."

Pom-Pons Perform In Five Parades

Flashing smiles, dancing feet, the gay swirl of pom-poms; these were the wonderful memories of nineteen scintillating Pom-Pon girls at Maine East. Well rehearsed, precision routines have always made our blue and white Pom-Pon girls the most outstanding in the area. At games or parades the beauties in blue and white have saucily swirled their skirts, and flamboyantly flouted their pom-poms to the immense enjoyment of every on-looker.

This year the Pom-Pon squad distinguished themselves at Northwestern Band Day and the Von Steuban Day Parade; and this summer also saw them active at the Memorial Day Parade, two Fourth of July Parades and the Niles Day Parade. Besides performing at all of the home football and basketball games, the Pi Pi Chi beauties made for golden memories: many of the school assemblies and pep rallies were brightened because of the Pom-Pon squad performances.

The Pom-Pon squad joined the Marching Band on Milwaukee Avenue during the Homecoming Parade. Rona Kamikow, Debbie Faulconer, and Ann Kruzel all listen for the beat of the music to begin as they march down Milwaukee Avenue during Homecoming Parade.

Despite the score, Pom-Pon girls entertain the audience and cheer the boys on to victory during Homecoming half time. Accompanied by the Marching Band, the young ladies performed one of their many routines made up by the entire squad.

Pride In Education Bywords Of Maine

During the fifty years in which the Lens has been published, great changes have taken place at Maine. In order to illustrate these changes, the Lens has asked Dr. Short, Superintendent of District 207, Mr. Frost, Assistant Superintendent, and Mr. Hartford, Assistant Principal of Maine East, to reflect on Maine's past growth, and on its future prospects.

We have also asked the chairmen of the academic departments to give us the histories of their respective departments.

"Excellence in education and pride in forward looking educational objectives and principles have been the bywords of Maine Township High Schools ever since the first building opened its doors in 1902. The original Maine High School, located in Des Plaines, (later to be known as Thacker Junior High School,) opened in 1902 with thirty-five students reporting for classes on opening day. Before the end of the year, fifty students were attending.

Enrollment in the school continued to climb, and eventually it became evident that larger facilities were needed. Construction of a new Maine high school facility was completed in 1929 and the present Maine East campus became a reality. The new building, with its imposing tower, soon became a landmark in this part of the township. Curriculum innovation and development in the Maine high schools have often received national recognition. Innovativeness has traditionally been part of the Maine way and will continue to challenge students and faculty alike.

The Maine high schools foster an educational climate which encourages each student to do his best. Every effort is made to stimulate the student's capacity to learn and to motivate his desire to gain new and productive skills."

Fifty years ago Maine Township High School served a sparsely settled area. The school had a small enrollment, limited curriculum, and few teachers. However, the passing of a half-century has brought about a dramatic change. Today the three Maine high schools enroll 10,500 students, the staff numbers 667, and the curriculum includes more than 200 courses.

The current school program is broad in its scope, significant in its depth, and stimulating in its content. The program is based on the following educational objective: the optimum development of every student; the maintenance of high standards for all classes; the development of an educational climate which provides stimulating experiences for all high school youths; and the need for preparing students to take their places as discerning citizens in a complex world.

To maintain and strengthen the present program the district seeks teachers who are able, ambitious, well-prepared, and professionally minded.

With community support the Maine High Schools will continue to grow and prosper during the next fifty years.

Student-Admin. Relations Improve

Within the last fifty years, Maine's administration has undergone radical changes. In 1919, Maine's principal was a teacher. However, soon after the principal was relieved of his duty as a teacher, he then assumed the post of principal-superintendent. In 1950, he was given an assistant. In 1959, when Maine West was opened, the post of district superintendent was created. Each school also had a principal and assistant principal.

Today Maine's administration also includes Deans of Boys, Girls, and Students, as well as an assistant principal in charge of student affairs. In an attempt to open up lines of communication, the principal's decision making method has changed. The principal now has advisory groups, made up of teachers, students, and department chairmen. The principal includes these groups in the decision making process. All of this change and expansion has been made in an attempt to improve student-administration relations.

Secretaries, Helpers Keep Maine Going

Maine students were often too busy to fully appreciate the services of the secretaries and office helpers. However, their work was vital to Maine's daily business.

Students worked in the library, the guidance office, the attendance office, and as hall receptionists. Library helpers stacked books, worked at the circulation desk, and delivered attendance slips. These slips notified study hall teachers which students were using their study period to work in the library. The function of the hall receptionists was to give guidance to lost freshmen as well as to greet visitors. Guidance office helpers delivered slips which informed students of their counselors' desire to have an immediate conference. The attendance office workers handled much of the paper work in the office.

The secretaries in these offices also were mainly concerned with paper work. Guidance office secretaries were a big help to students, arranging for appointments with counselors. The attendance office secretaries arranged schedules and checked on causes for student absenteeism.

Cafeteria "Look": Cramped But Gay

This year one of the most noticeable services was the hardest to perform. Because of the construction being carried on in and out of school, the custodians, matrons and cafeteria staff have been working twice as hard.

The custodians have been exceptionally busy this year. Besides the regular routine of cleaning each classroom after school and the gym after every home game, they've had the difficult task of keeping the halls as clean as possible. Aiding the custodian staff in keeping the school orderly are the matrons. Besides working with the custodians, the matrons perform an invaluable service to the girls P.E. dept., by repairing ripped clothing, sorting swimming suits, and other items of importance.

The cafeteria staff also tried their hardest under the "torn up" condition of the cafeteria. Food choices were few, only salads, hot dogs, hamburgers and a hot plate were served, but served on paper plates and plastic silverware.

Kerry Fishman is encouraged to gain weight by Sam James and Darlene PUNCHES while Denny Hondorp voices hearty agreement.

Driver Ed. Course Adds Simulators

Since 1952 when a Drivers' training course was introduced into the curriculum of Maine the number of students seeking to take the course has increased. As the years passed the department has grown. In 1957 the classroom phase of the training became mandatory for all students while behind-the-wheel remained optional.

This year a new system was incorporated. The students involved have completed a course of classroom instruction and are completing a course in simulation and behind-the-wheel driving. Next year the course will be extended to one semester and all phases will be taught in a rotation system. According to Mr. Pawlowski, department chairman, this new system will accommodate more students.

So that the safety rules that the students learn in the various Drivers' Education courses can be enforced on our campus, a traffic court was organized several years ago. Tickets are issued by parking lot monitors. Court is in session several days a week and operates in the same fashion as a regular court.

Robert Hammerman, prosecuting attorney, and Glenn Evenson, Judge, try a violator of school driving safety rules. Students who park illegally, exceed speed limits, or violate other school driving laws are ticketed and must appear in traffic court which is in session first period several days a week.

War Alters Gym Program At M.E.

An intensive P.E. program was brought to Maine when a situation that was concerning the whole world came to Maine: World War II. Maine began an all-out war program because its country had called for a constructive and vitalized school curriculum which would, hopefully, help the country prepare its people for war. Immediately following the Pearl Harbor incident changes were made to further develop the moral, physical, and vocational condition of the students. Seniors, already taking five days of gym per week, were required to do the same the following year—this program has extended to the present time. Emphasis was placed upon the development of right attitudes, yet this was done without any resemblance of war hysteria.

Presently, though not in a state of war, the country has initiated a physical fitness program which is being carried out in both the girls and boys P.E. departments.

P.E. Rears Student Interest In Sports

One department unaffected by time is Physical Education. Since the school's founding in 1902, P.E., even though little changed, has been required. For girls, P.E. includes activities that are of recreational value while designed to help develop coordination, grace, and poise. The department further encourages the students by sponsoring after school interest groups such as Terrapin.

Physical Education is required, by state, to be taken every year in high school. The objective of Boys' P.E. is to give every boy at Maine the opportunity to develop a strong, sound, healthy body, to form good health habits and to teach him to get along with others through teamwork and sportsmanship in competitive activities.

One of the most frequent accidents in gym, trampoline injuries, keep the nurses fairly busy. Here Mrs. Phar tries to find out how extensive an injury is.

New Health Center Adds Two Rooms

In 1940, when the counseling program was started, there were two deans for every class. Now there are fourteen counselors, some of them with very specialized training and background. There are psychologists, social workers, speech therapists and remedial reading guidance directors that contribute their specialized services to the student body.

Counseling performs an important and valuable service to every Maine student throughout the four years of high school life. At Maine East there is a counselor for every 300 students. Since 1962, each counselor is assigned a new group of incoming freshmen each year and remains with them throughout the four years.

Our counselors see to it that the right courses are selected, that career opportunities are offered or they assist college bound students in selecting the schools of their choice. Generally, the reputation of Maine East is so high that over 90% of our students go on to college, sometimes with sophomore status.

Counseling also includes the Dean of Girls, Dean of Boys, and Dean of Students. Counseling, because of the personal interest in each Maine East student, is a great factor in the quality educational program.

Fifty years ago the nursing facility at Maine consisted of a cot in the dean's office that was probably more of an afterthought than a plan. Today there is a modern Health Center complete with a full-time staff, part-time volunteer help, and secretarial assistance. This center was remodeled and an addition of two rooms was made.

The student Health Center serves every one of the students sometime during his high school career. The nurses are confronted with everything from serious trampoline injuries to ripped pants and headaches.

English Initiates Sr. Film Program

Ever since Maine opened its doors in 1902, the English department has played a key role in Maine's academic growth. In its first year of operation, the department consisted of one teacher. By 1919 the English department faculty mushroomed to two teachers.

The aim of the department was to "help pupils form correct habits of oral and written expression." To fulfill this purpose, five classics were read which aided in student appreciation of literature. Meanwhile, the department faculty continued to increase; it reached seven by 1927.

The English program expanded greatly during the thirties and forties. In 1933 a reading program was instituted for juniors and seniors. In the program, slow readers were taught how to develop good reading habits, express themselves properly, and develop good penmanship. In 1941, a specialist in such remedial programs was added. Department equipment and texts were changed in order to keep up with the times. An example of this policy was the change made from traditional practice pads to a composition book. Besides literature and grammar, speech and drama, being oral communications, became part of the English department.

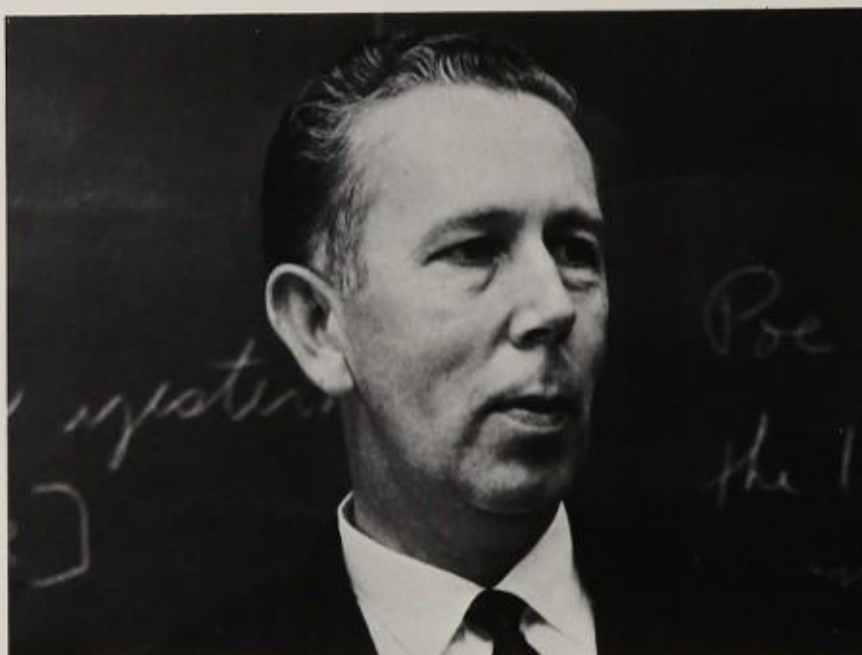

In 1933, Speech was initiated and Dramatics entered in 1938. In 1959 an unusual and interesting addition was made to Speech and Drama, FM radio station WMTH.

In the past few years, new units of study have been introduced, structural English is being taught, a course in film study has been introduced. Still, the aim of studying literature, composition, and grammar has not been bypassed.

Speech and Drama Adds TV Course

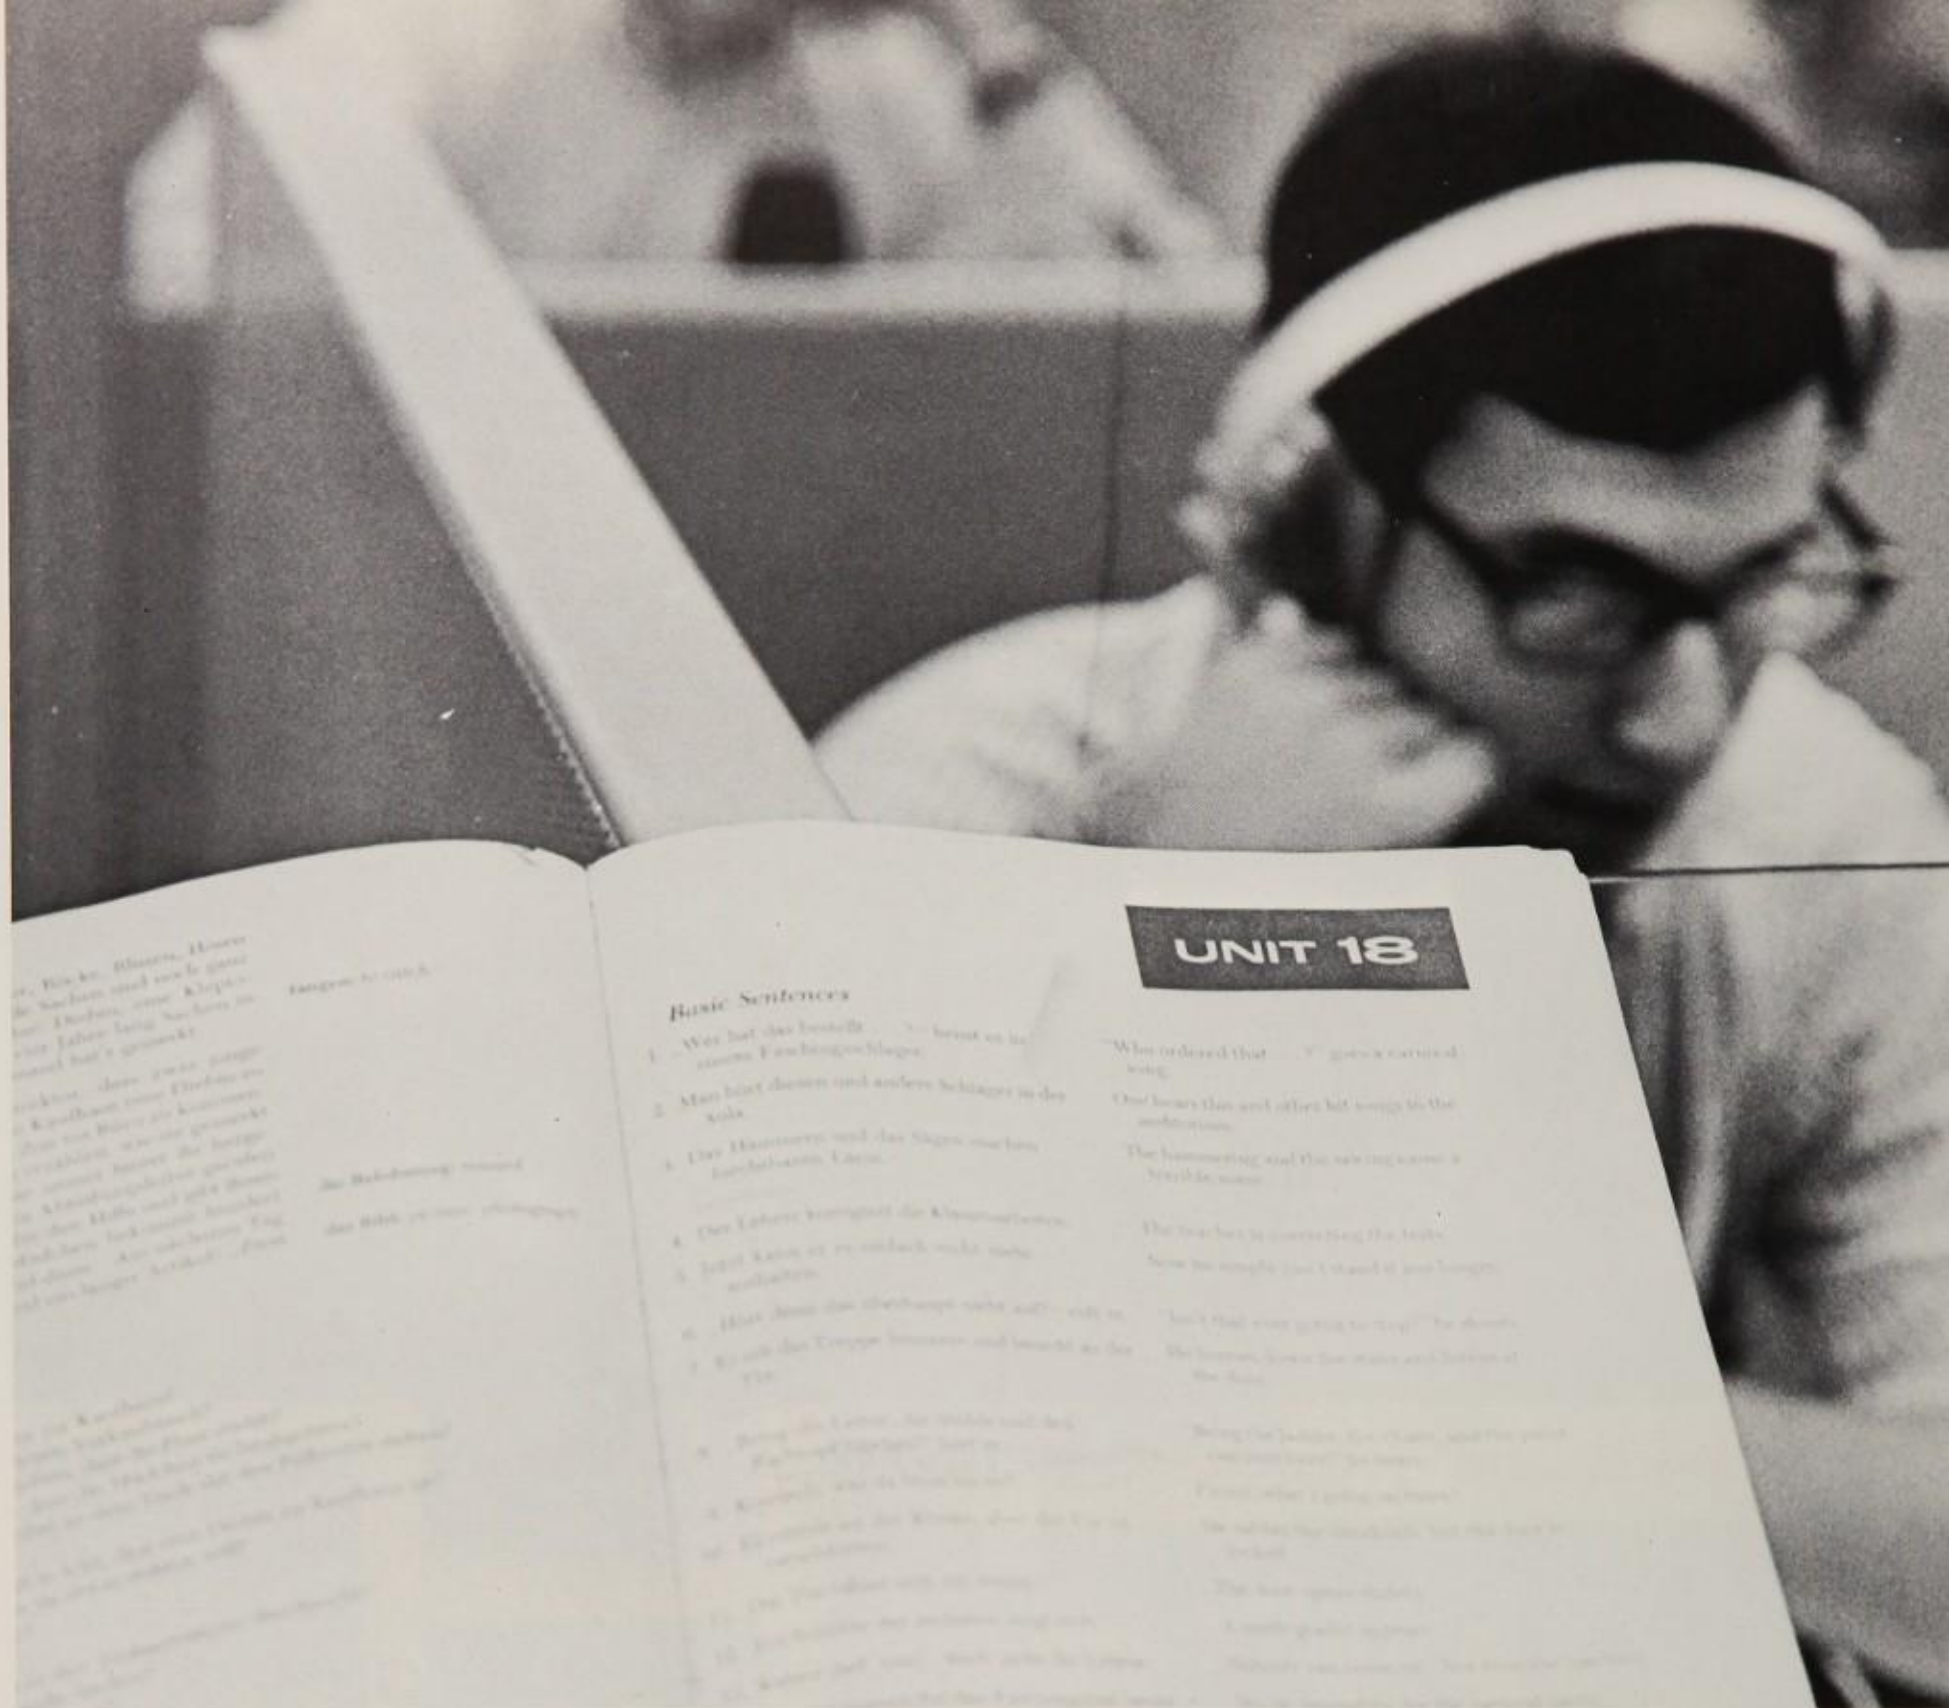

In 1963 the English department established a Speech and Drama branch because of growing interest in this area of education. The aim of the newly established branch was to develop a sense of personal identity in each student and an understanding of dramatic arts. Courses in Public Speaking, Debate, Stagecraft, Drama I and Drama II were added to the school's curriculum where the technical world of the theater and the practical use of clear speech are emphasized. Skills learned in class are further applied in speech contests, intra-school debates, and the production of plays.

Lang. Enlightens Students' World

Because of the constant change of world affairs and conditions, the world is becoming smaller and smaller. With the help of the language department, the students at Maine became involved in this constant change.

The availability of teachers with the requirements of college added, language became a real force at Maine. Latin and German were the basis of the language department, and neither language has dropped in the curriculum. The department enlarged to include Spanish, established in 1921, and all three languages with the addition of French, as late as 1927, with only three language teachers at Maine formed this curricula in the late twenties.

Later Russian and Italian were added, and now our department offers the five languages as a four year program. For advanced students, a fifth year course is offered. The language department is constantly adding new equipment and material to help each student's concept in the language of his choice. Time and teachers are short, but with certain adaptations each student at Maine has the opportunity to learn a language.

Art Represents Unique Solutions

Art is a soaring force at Maine East, from giant paper posters to unique exhibits in prizewinning competition. Maine East art students express themselves with vitality and dignity.

It is not surprising to learn that Maine East has doubled their art faculty in the last five years. The number of students seeking innovative ways of expressing themselves find a wide scope of curricula and equipment in the art department.

Mr. Whitley, Art Department Chairman, states, "The teaching of high school art is a challenge of fantastic proportions. Each finished art product is an intensely personal, individual statement, and represents an unique solution to a problem encompassing infinite elements; subject matter, media, intellectual involvement, emotional impact, and physical organization."

The art curriculum has been divided into three main areas: three-dimensional design, which includes ceramics, jewelry, and sculpture; painting, drawing, and two-dimensional design; and print-making, layout and lettering. Each area is taught by competent teachers whose main interests are in that area. Every nine weeks the students change rooms for instruction in another area by another teacher. Our students are given the broadest education possible.

Art history is taught by each teacher as it applies to his area, Pre-Renaissance, Renaissance, Post-Renaissance, through the 19th century and 20th century art.

The fieldhouse, the scene of the art show, with such artistic projects as rugs, paintings, etchings and sculptures were displayed. They were created and sold by our Art Department.

Last spring Maine held the second annual Festival of the Arts. One of the many activities included was a Fash-In Show, featuring the Missing Links. Above: The littlest member of all, Scott Blume, sang to the young ladies who were presenting the fashion. A Pancake Jamboree sponsored by M-Club was held. Below: Coach Brothers was among the griddle men who were serving an "all-you-want" order of pancakes to the hungry.

Music Dep't Grows, Captures Honors

The Maine Music Department has always been one of the most active departments in the school. Along with traditional groups, such as the orchestra and the choir, the music department has initiated activities such as Cadet Band, Tri-M, and Marching Band. Still other groups, such as the Capella Choir, are no longer in existence.

Members of the music department have always participated in many Community shows, such as the "Messiah" and seasonal concerts. The department's outstanding record in music competition began in 1932, when Maine's Capella Choir took first place in state competition. Ever since that first award, the music department's list of honors has grown rapidly.

The music department offers the student an opportunity for self-expression and enjoyable activity. Through the experience of an appearance before an audience, the student is also given an opportunity to gain poise and composure on stage.

Soc. Sc. Stresses Patriotism, U.S.A.

The Social Science Department has attempted through the years to provide students with a greater appreciation of their Republic by stressing the lessons of the past, providing field trips to key institutions—the "heartbeat" of our society—and by emphasizing the "basic freedoms" through spirited debate and discussion in the classroom.

There have been many inspiring teachers to "lead the way" through the past five decades of achievement. Teachers are aware that a future statesman, ambassador, or civic leader may be "sitting at his feet," learning "the basics" that will help him protect the heritage for those yet to be born. Among the men and women who have worked long and hard to build Maine's Social Science Department are: Earl M. North 1923-46, long time department chairman of the department who pioneered in the field of college guidance, Americanism, and opened students' eyes to vocational possibilities, conservation, etc. Superintendent Frank Holmes said of him in 1946 that he was truly the "mainstay" of the department during his 23 years here. Einar J. Anderson 1929-60, foresighted organizer of Maine's famed Adult Evening School, architect of the traditional American Legion-Sponsored Constitution Contest, and creative sponsor of the Maine Historical Society, and the spring trips to our nation's capitol. J. W. Anderson 1941-1967, Miss Libbie Kukral 1943-1965, and Clifford May 1927-1960, were long-time workers and "doers" who added luster to the department over a quarter of a century. John Downs, 1946-1949, succeeded Mr. North as chairman in those crowded, tumultuous days that followed World War II. In 1949, with the atomic era upon us and the hopes and dreams of the space age "just around the corner," Mr. John Kirby, back from the Navy, "took the helm" and provided leadership to a much enlarged department faced with the challenge of expanding a curriculum to make social science, history and government "live" in a period filled with such names as "Korea," "Sputnik," "Ike," "Cape Kennedy," and cybernetics.

In recent years the Social Science Department has adopted various levels of learning achievement—Accelerated sections, Advanced Placement college courses, and provisions provided for the slow achiever.

It is vitally important that our Social Studies curriculum needs be kept flexible in order to change as the culture changes. And finally, our major objective is to develop open minds and techniques, and habits of critical thinking and reading so essential to effective citizenship in our contemporary modern world.

Revise, Improve Math's Key Words

Throughout its history, the goal of the math department has been, as department chairman Ruth Anderson describes it, "To provide appropriate courses using variable instructional techniques so that each student can successfully learn as much mathematics as possible." Improvements have continually been made in curriculum and teaching methods. From 1917-1927, student ability groups were established and expanded. In the next several decades curriculum additions included trigonometry, advanced algebra, and college algebra. Substantial changes followed the launching of Sputnik I in the late '50's. Because of the great interest in developing math talent, which was aroused by this event, advanced courses such as Differential and Integral Calculus were added. This year advanced math III was given a new look, as trigonometry was added. Through this constant revision and improvement, the math department has been able to maintain its high standards.

A.P. Program And Seminar New In 1958

In 1913 the Science Department at Maine consisted of one full-time teacher and one half-time teacher. At that time Physics and Agriculture were taught in the department by the same teacher. The staff was increased to three teachers by 1927 and the aims and goals of science education in Maine Township were set down as being: To teach science principles to students to enable them to cope with their environments and to make worthwhile contributions to society. For the first time the sciences were presented as a coherent story with General Science for freshmen, Biology for sophomores, Physics for juniors, and Chemistry for seniors. It was during this era that the first department chairman, Miss Rose Cassidy, was appointed. She was a chemistry teacher.

By 1940 the science staff had increased to five science teachers with primarily the same goals, with the exception that preparation for college was added as a goal. Some of our present faculty members in Maine Township were members of the staff in 1940.

By 1950 the number of science teachers was increased to nine to handle an increase in enrollment. The chairman of the department was Mr. Jim Irving. It was about this time that great changes started to come about in science education in the United States. The Science Department at Maine, starting with the year 1957, acted as one of the leaders in science education bringing about a change in curriculum, equipment and student grouping. By 1957 Mr. Herman Rider, who is now principal at Maine West, was the chairman of science.

The changes which took place from 1957 through 1963 were many. The major changes taking place during this time were in course content, updating of science activities for students to include science as a process rather than a collection of facts, and the including of several national curriculums in science prompted by the launching of Sputnik. At this time Maine acted as a pilot school for many national curriculum endeavors. We have had teachers involved in the preparation and evaluation of numerous national projects and programs.

In 1958 the department introduced the Advanced Placement program together with our present Seminar program. Both have proven to be extremely successful in training science oriented students. The Advanced Placement program in Chemistry was instituted first, followed by Biology in 1960. In 1959 Maine was honored with a winner of the national Westinghouse Talent Search and has produced many students from our Seminar program who have received honorable mention in that contest.

By 1968 the department had grown to a staff of 19 teachers and two new high schools in the district—each also with a staff of 19 teachers. So, science in Maine Township has grown from one and one-half teachers and two rooms in 1913 to 57 teachers in three departments in 50 rooms in 1968.

The science activities in Maine Township high schools have been well-planned and extremely beneficial to the college-bound students, as well as those not attending college. It has received national recognition for the efforts and training for a fine staff of devoted teachers.

The present science facilities were built in 1953. The first two floors of the science wing were built in 1953 and the third floor was added in 1956. There have been many changes in the science facilities through the past ten years. Each room today is a modern science facility.

Ind. Arts Changes Practical To Tech.

Industrial Education is one of the oldest departments at Maine. The biggest change that has taken place through the years is the fact that it has changed from the practical to the technical; students learn more of how to do it than of actually doing it. The courses are constructed to give students the opportunity to explore various industrial courses or specialize in some industrial field during their four years at Maine.

Industrial Ed. is growing both in curriculum (with the addition of electronics and automotive-mechanics) and in enrollment. The course in auto-mechanics combines the theory of power with practice, and electronics is a four year program which covers everything from the basic fundamentals of wiring to the more detailed study of constructing and analyzing radio and T.V.

Further growth in the department will come with the construction of two new auto-mechanic shops and a woodshop which will be an extension of the original Industrial Education building.

Home Ec. Includes New Society Study

The Home Economics department includes everything from the application of modern scientific knowledge and arts, to the improvement of personal and family living. Home Economics' aim is to help students develop certain fundamental competencies that would aid them in an effective life. To help achieve their goal, the Home Economics Department offers the course "Psychology for Living" which gives the students a basic concept of psychology aimed at giving students an understanding of personality developments and function in our society. There is emphasis on self-understanding, enabling students to gain insight into their own behavior.

The Home Ec. program, in the past, dealt with preparing the students in becoming "homemakers" while now more concentration is placed on the professional aspect other than the original practical value. Because the enrollment has doubled within the last couple of years, the Home Economics department is adding new food and clothing laboratories.

Career-Bound? Watch Coop. Ed.

In 1960 when the need for a technical vocational course became apparent, businessmen in the Maine Township area were contacted concerning this course. Interest in both the student body and the business community ran high and the Co-operative Education program grew considerably. The course expanded into several more specific areas including Food Occupations and Office Occupations.

Many of these various sections of the general program contained, also, occupational clubs. These clubs provided recreational enjoyment for the students who, because of their participation in these various programs, were unable to take part in the regular after school extracurricular activities.

Special Ed Aims Toward Business

The Special Vocational Program offered practical work experience to non-college bound students. The program also placed emphasis on occupational education through academic study. The Special Education Department was formed to fulfill the requirement set by the State that each school district must have facilities to accommodate exceptional students.

Some regular courses at Maine were at the level of the Special Vocational Program students. These classes include Chorus, Art and Typing. A special academic program was set up to teach the students Home Arts, Social Studies, Language Arts, Family Living, History and Government, Typing, Math Fundamentals and Special Shop. These classes were designed to give students a challenge suited for their ability level.

Practical training was given in the Home Arts class. In this class students made various foods and gifts which were sold to the faculty. With the money earned by these sales, Special Ed classes took a weekend trip to the East in the spring.

In a vocational class sophomores and juniors learned how to get jobs and fill out income tax forms. Seniors were placed in outside, paying jobs. Sophomores and juniors were given opportunities to learn practical office skills while holding non-paying and paying jobs.

Through this program students learned how to live independently.

Dep't. Experiences

Gradual Increase

In 1913, Commercial Branches were recognized when the student body numbered 163 students. By 1919 Commerce was identified as a department in itself, and the department chairman, Mr. F. D. Gorsline, was one of the busiest members of the faculty. Another teacher was employed in 1922 to teach the commercial subjects; the department was beginning to expand.

In 1923 law and commercial geography were added to the business curriculum, and a third teacher joined the business staff. By 1937, Maine was well-established at its present location and the Commercial Department had grown to seven teachers.

Today, enrollment in Business Education has grown to more than two thousand students. The Business Department staff numbers seventeen teachers.

IBM Machines Available To Big 3

In the sophisticated computer world, Maine Township has attained genuine leadership. Using IBM 1401 Machines, the Data Processing, while based at Maine East, is made available to all three Maine schools in the district.

The Big Brain also works overtime in the Adult Evening School Educational Program for high school graduates, helping with the training of computer study.

Not only are students trained in the use and care of the machine, but the big 1401 saves the district almost countless dollars by authorizing the payroll and maintaining the budget and systems of accounts for the district. Also, it accomplishes student scheduling and the assembling and reporting of all student data. The 1401 is used in many expanding ways by the executive staff and board of education in collating rapid data for assessment and decision making.

Library Adds New Space, Materials

Backgrounded by fifty years of progressive librarial techniques, Maine East's magnificent new three story LRC will be ready in the fall of 1969. The first year of the Learning Research Center will be most exciting. It will be replete with dial-access study carrels, plus all the wealth of 22,000 books, records, micro-films, the forty-eight drawer files, plays and magazines.

Now staffed by four librarians, five clerks, and four dozen student helpers, the library has offered opportunities in educational research that few high schools in the nation can equal.

Two years ago a need for speech therapy in the Maine Township area became apparent. A therapist was hired for the district and the program got underway. All incoming freshmen were screened for speech defects in several areas which included articulation, stuttering, learning disabilities, and voice. An area for this program was set up, in the Guidance Center, and about forty regular students participated in the program.

The library adds SCOPE to the common knowledge of the everyday student.

Students Compete For Scholarships

"One of the high honors a student could attain was membership in the Maine East Honor Society, a chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools. To be eligible, seniors must have had at least a 3.0 or B average and taken no less than four full credit courses in each of the seven semesters. Juniors ranking in the upper five per cent of their class who have had grades no lower than a "B" were eligible in their sixth semester. Students meeting these prerequisites were then evaluated by the entire faculty, who gave a rating, on a one-to-five scale, on character, service and leadership. Composite scores determined membership.

Since only 15 per cent of the seniors and five per cent of the juniors academically qualified to become Honor Society members, those people elected will receive recognition for their achievement and fine representation of their school.

Another Honorary program, began twenty years ago, was the State Scholarship Program in which honorary awards provided financial assistance to needy students. The requirements were that the student must have been a U.S. citizen and an Illinois resident of good moral character. After academic qualifications were met, qualified participants submitted their applications for award consideration. The student's financial situation was then evaluated by a committee to determine the financial assistance needed. Monetary awards provided full or partial payment of tuition.

Door To Success Unlocked By Clubs

"Membership in a national society should be the objective of the ambitious and forward looking high school student."

Sigma Chi Sigma, the Honorary Reading Club, was organized in 1960 to recognize students who excel in the skill of reading, and to further develop this skill. A test was given to determine qualification, in which a student must have scored at or above the 90th percentile.

Scholastic talent was never over-looked at Maine, for yearly, since 1959, Maine students have been tested by National Merit. The testing was designed to identify students who rank in the upper 2% of the nation's students.

The establishment and understanding of Mathematics was the main objective of Mu Alpha Theta. The club conducts two monthly meetings; at one meeting a topic was prepared and presented. The other meeting was devoted to Mathematical recreation.

The National Thespian Society was an educational honor organization established for the advancement of dramatic arts. Qualification for membership at Maine included the total of a hundred hours of production work and the payment of fifty-cents before initiation.

Maine Music Masters was developed for the purpose of recognizing those students who take part in the music department. Its financial and moral support depends on the interests people have in Music.

"For many students membership in a honorary society was the high point of their high school career. For some it opened the door to opportunity and success."

Honor Societies

Acclaim Students

Maine's academic traditions demanded the recognition of outstanding achievement; throughout Maine's history various organizations were established to accommodate such students.

Journalistic talent was honored by the Quill and Scroll Society. Qualifications for membership were 100 inches of written copy for the Pioneer, and two years of outstanding work on the Lens. A further requirement was an over-all "B" average. At this year's banquet new members were inducted into the society and the editors for the '69-'70 publications were named.

Exceptional historical knowledge was recognized by Maine's Historical Society. Those students who did outstanding work and ranked in the top 15% of their class were accepted into the society.

One organization whose members were selected by the student body was the Brotherhood Society. Six students from each class, three boys and three girls, were selected by their classmates on the basis of friendship, school spirit, and cooperation.

Scholastic magazine awarded Maine students gold keys, blue ribbons, and places for their art entries this year in the Scholastic Art Award Competition. Maine received more awards than any other participating school. All winning work went on to New York for national competition.

The Science Seminar offered opportunity and encouragement to any student who was admitted. To gain entrance a student had to take a written exam and rank in the upper 5% of his class.

David Feldman and Paul Kucera work on their Science Seminar project of electrophoresis. Work is done on an extracurricular basis.

Of Experience, Challenge, Spirit, and Decision ... the four goals conveyed in this special 50th Anniversary edition of the LENS. Through our theme "Of," we have tried to bring to you the events and the people that make up our school—administration, faculty, activities, athletics, and most important, you the students. Both the LENS and Maine have gained greater insight because OF EXPERIENCE. With yearbook publishing and styling constantly changing, the 1969 LENS has been able to use a variety of techniques and colorings unheard of 50 years ago. Maine, too, has learned through experience and achieved excellence in many fields—forensics, music, athletics, and journalism, to mention only a few.

It has also been through Experience that Maine and the LENS have met the years OF CHALLENGE. In compiling this history-record book, we have accepted the challenge of informality as our key to success. This goal was attained through creative mood-setting layouts, intriguing pictures, symbolic artwork, and up-to-date copy to match the pace of our surging generation.

It is to many people who helped in the production of this special yearbook that we are extremely grateful for their contribution OF SPIRIT:

To Taylor Publishing Company and to Walinger Studio, and their helpful photographers who helped us capture Maine a little less formally and a little more spiritedly ...

To the Administration and Faculty of Maine East for their tremendous enthusiasm and cooperation in supporting our color section and our demanding picture ideas, and in supplying our copy staff with club, departmental, and school histories ...

To Miss Barbara Witkiewicz and Miss Elizabeth McCandless whose assistance in various capacities helped in the production of this yearbook ...

To Laura Kotsiris, managing editor, for a job well done.

It is to our sponsor Miss Cynthia Baranowski who became not only a dear friend, but whose million dollar smile brightened many crises that occurred while putting together this book, that I extend my deepest gratitude. Her guidance in outstanding yearbook journalism posed the challenge for high quality journalism.

But it is to my staff, whose untiring efforts and devotion have made this 50th Anniversary edition of the LENS truly special, that I extend my sincere thanks. And it is you, the students of Maine East, authors of this book, we thank.

For us seniors, the graduating class of 1969, this has been the year OF DECISION. As we seniors look back at our high school years filled with triumphs and defeats, we realize that we have become greater individuals better able to live in our society. We are thankful for the lessons learned from the administrators and faculty members during our high school days. You and I can best remember these four years in times to come through the pages of this book—the 50th Anniversary Edition of the LENS.
